Hitler Demands 2,600,000 Men For Spring War

Allies Are Told to Anticipate Up With Divisions to Replace Terrible Russian Losses

Trucks Are Seen U. S. Army Trucks Are Noticed on Moscow's Streets

(By The Associated Press) Adolf Hitler was reported today to have called upon Italy, Hungary and Slovakia for 2,600,000 fresh troops to bolster the heralded Nazi spring offensive and fill the gaps left by nine months of slaughter in the war with Russia. Advices reaching London said Hitler, desperately needing manpower to replace the Nazi losses in dead, wounded and missing, had demanded 1,000,000 troops from Italy, 1,500,000 from Hungary and 100,000 from Slovakia.

Soviet authorities declared on February 22 that Germany had lost 6,000,000 men on the Russian front. With pre-spring thaws already melting snow on the long battle-line, dispatches indicated that the Russians were smashing with ever increasing fury to demoralize the Germans and keep them reeling backwards instead of organizing a spring counter-drive.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that the Red armies were striking in mass attacks on the southern (Ukraine) front and holding the initiative on the Moscow and Leningrad fronts.

"Heavy and bloody losses were inflicted upon the enemy," the German high command said, in a communiqué which also noted "uninterrupted heavy defense fighting" by German troops.

Soviet dispatches reported the capture of an important junction in the Lake Ilmen sector, where trapped survivors of the German 16th army originally estimated at 96,000 soldiers were reported suffering from lack of food, clothing and munitions.

A Red army bulletin also announced the capture of three villages on the central front, where Nazi garrisons at Rzhev and Vyazma were described as virtually surrounded.

United States-built trucks and motor cars, some still bearing the olive drab paint of the U. S. army, mingled with Russian vehicles in a drive today as fresh evidence of allied supply aid for the Red army. These vehicles have been pressed into immediate service by the Russians—just as imported tanks and planes were thrown into action—in the effort to destroy Adolf Hitler and his cohorts by the end of 1942.

British bombers struck again overnight at German objectives in an effort to cripple war supply. It was reported in Stockholm to be taking up more than two-thirds of Germany's industrial capacity.

A Free French radio broadcast from Brazzaville, French Equatorial Africa, said De Gaulle troops had entered the final stage of raids upon Italian positions in southwest Libya.

Important munitions depots were destroyed, Fascist outposts were seriously damaged and prisoners were taken in a 1,200-mile drive from the Lake Chad region across the great Fezzan Desert, it was said.

Seattle Gets New Mayor
Seattle, March 11 (AP)—Seattle voters hailed a new mayor-designate today after turning out of office the incumbent who had the active support of Dave Beck, west coast leader of the A.F.L. Teamsters' Union, in a bitterly contested campaign. Police Judge William F. Devin ran up a surprising 3-to-2 margin over Mayor Earl Millikin in yesterday's voting. The totals were: Devin 63,892; Millikin 43,541.

Newsprint Ceiling Soon
Washington, March 11 (AP)—The United States and Canada soon will establish maximum prices for newsprint, authoritative sources declared today, but there was no immediate indication what the ceilings would be. The present American quotation is $50 a ton. It was understood that the two governments would act simultaneously in establishing the price maxima.

Vargas Gives Self Authority to Call State of Warfare

Brazilian Shipping Line Suspends Sailings of All Ships to U. S., Recalls Others

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, March 11 (AP)—President Getulio Vargas issued a decree today giving himself the authority to declare a state of war or a state of emergency throughout the country in case of foreign menace, imminence of internal disturbance or existence of a plan for conspiracy. Promptly answering the torpedoing of the fourth Brazilian ship off the United States coast, in three weeks, the decree cleared the way for imprisonment of Axis subjects and seizure of Axis property.

Orders for seizure of Axis property were expected within 48 hours. The decree, issued as Brazil was experiencing increasing shipping losses as a result of Axis submarine activity off the United States Atlantic coast, declared that "from the time the use of the armed forces for the defense of the state becomes necessary, the President will declare a state of war in all national territory or in part of it."

Any endangering of the country's institutions or the safety of its citizens or territory is sufficient cause for the President to declare a state of emergency in the whole country or any part of it, the decree provided.

All constitutional guarantees relating to the life and property of citizens of foreign states which may have "practiced acts of aggression harmful to the Brazilian state" would thereby be suspended, the decree said.

At the same time the government shipping line, Lloyd Brasileiro, announced that suspension of all sailings of Brazilian ships to the United States had been ordered by the government and all such ships en route to United States ports ordered recalled home.

This followed upon the loss of four Brazilian ships totaling 22,231 tons by submarine attacks off the North American coast. (Brazil's shipping losses in the World War led her to declare war against Germany.)

It seemed likely the Brazilian government would decide to await the organization of a convoy system rather than continue to risk heavy losses to its unarmed merchant marine.

The loss of the fourth Brazilian ship, the 5,152-ton Cayru, sunk Sunday night about 130 miles off Ambrose light, was announced yesterday. Fifty-three crew members and six passengers were still missing. There were 26 survivors.

Other Brazilian ships lost were the Buarcue, off Cape Henry, Va., February 14, the Olinda, off the North Atlantic coast February 17, and the Arabutan, torpedoed last Saturday off the North Carolina coast.

Children Decide for Father Man, Questioned in Slaying of His Ex-Wife, Allows Children to Act as Jury for Confession

Rockford, Ill., March 11 (AP)—Horace Turner put the question of his confession to a jury of five of his seven children, a prosecutor said, and after each had assented, the father declared: "I killed your mother because she didn't deserve to live."

The dramatic scene was enacted last night in the Winnebago county building, State's Attorney Max A. Weston reported.

Turner, 51, insisted upon seeing the children, ranging in age from 8 to 16 years. When they were brought before him, he said, according to Weston: "I want to tell you I did it. I also want to ask you if I should tell all. If I do I'll go to jail, or

Aldermen Take Steps to File Resolution With Clerks of Assembly and Senate

Mayor William F. Edelmuth called a special meeting of the Common Council Tuesday evening at the city hall for the purpose of taking steps to file resolutions with the clerks of the State Senate and Assembly in regard to the 2 per cent limitation and favoring the adoption of a bill that has been introduced that would exclude from this tax limitation the amount to be raised for school purposes.

The mayor in his communication read at the council meeting called attention to the fact that the council at his request met on February 11, and adopted a resolution to that effect and that since that time bills have been introduced in the legislature which, in effect, give the city the relief sought, but which vary in form from the bills on which the February 11 action was taken.

Mayor Edelmuth asked the council to adopt a resolution to be filed with the clerks of the legislature asking for the passage of the new bill which has been introduced.

Acting unanimously in favor of the mayor's request the council adopted the following resolution: WHEREAS, on February 11th, 1942, this Council adopted a resolution asking that an act be passed by the Legislature of the State of New York, excluding from the Tax Limitation prescribed by Section 10, Article 8 of the State Constitution, the whole of the amount which shall be raised by Tax on Real Estate for Education.

Donald Nelson Blames Six Main Causes for Half Way War Output

Bills on 9-W Job Go to Two Houses Senate and Assembly Get Measure for Highway Project in County

Bills authorizing the construction of that section of route 9-W from Saugerties north to the Greene county line on an alignment westerly of the present existing highway, have been introduced in the Senate and Assembly by Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Wadlin. The Assembly bill presented on March 3 by Assemblyman Wadlin has had one reading and referred to the Committee on Internal Affairs.

The bills, which amend the highway law, relative to state highway construction in Ulster county, call for the construction of the route "from a point on state route 3 at or near Saugerties, northerly, generally parallel to and west of state route 3, to Greene county line. The total cost of highway-railroad separations necessary in construction of the above described highway, where no crossings now exist, may be borne by the state and be paid for from any state or federal moneys available for the construction or reconstruction of state highways." The act shall take effect immediately.

Construction of this road is being sought as a defense measure and recently residents of Saugerties who had opposed the construction of the route westerly from the village and had sought to have the road constructed over a viaduct plan across the Esopus creek and thence northerly along the present route in general, agreed to withdraw former opposition to the request for approval of the by-pass route around Saugerties village. Withdrawal of this opposition on behalf of Saugerties people was effected at a meeting held at the office of Senator Wicks in this city. While general approval of the new route was not given by the Saugerties people, their former opposition was withdrawn.

Hope is being expressed that the work will get under way this year and the road built according to

Draft Lottery Will Be Held March 17 Beginning at 6 p. m. Officials Say

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Selective service officials today set 6 p. m., Eastern War Time, as the hour for starting March 17 the draft lottery which will determine the order of liability for service of an estimated 9,000,000 men who registered February 16.

Officials said that Secretary of War Stimson had been asked to draw the first capsule in the lottery, the third since enactment of the selective service law, but the first since war was declared.

President Roosevelt, who drew the first number in the first lottery, will not attend the third drawing.

All the February 16 registrants—men aged 20 to 44 inclusive who had not previously registered—now are being assigned serial numbers. Capsules bearing these numbers will be drawn in the lottery from a gold fish bowl and the order in which they are drawn will determine the registrant's order number.

Officials said further details of the lottery will be announced later in the week.

Production Chief Says He Thinks Lag Can Be Overcome by Government

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The nation's war industries were told today that they were operating at only 50 per cent of capacity, although "face to face with an enemy determined to destroy us."

Bespeaking a determined public demand for faster "production, and no fooling," Donald M. Nelson blamed the current output lag on these main causes:

Reluctance to increase the number of shifts; Lack of imagination in meeting production problems; The issue of extra pay for holidays and Sundays; Faulty flow of materials; Time required to train new men; Shortages of certain specialized facilities.

The war production chief, in a radio address to the country last night, voiced his belief that these difficulties could be overcome by government, labor and management working together in concerted effort.

"If all our equipment now involved in war production were used 20 hours a day, seven days a week," he declared, "we would practically double the man-hours being put into military production."

By a coincidence, the enemy helped emphasize Nelson's urgent words. Before he spoke, the Tokyo radio staked Nippon's hopes of ultimate victory on her ability to outdo both the United States and Britain in the battle of production.

Name-Calling No Help In his survey of the present production situation, Nelson said that no single group was responsible. "Name-calling won't help," he cautioned. "Such stuff is distracting. It takes the eye off the sight when it should at all times be on the target."

Nevertheless, he told labor and management that they were getting their "last chance" to deliver the goods.

"Let's be perfectly frank," he said, "neither management nor labor in plants working on war orders; nor management and labor

F.D.R. Gives Lend-Lease Analysis

First-Year Report Is Given by President, Says We'll Need Full Strength

Success Is Dear

Repeated Losses Will Come Before Victory, F. D. R. Warns

Washington, March 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt informed Congress today in a message analyzing the first year's operations of the lend-lease program that the offensive of the United Nations "must and will drive into the heart of the Axis" would take "the entire strength that we possess."

"The war can only be won by contact with the enemies, and by attack upon them," he asserted in a letter transmitting the lend-lease report. "That takes time, for the United Nations need more and still more equipment and transportation. Success will come dearly, at the price of defeats and losses."

Mr. Roosevelt said lend-lease was a prime mechanism through which the United Nations were pooling their entire resources.

The report, covering operations since the original lend-lease law was signed a year ago today, showed that the total value of aid was $2,570,452,441.

This aid includes not only military items such as guns, tanks and planes, but also raw materials, machinery, food, ships, expansion of production facilities and services.

Defense articles actually transferred to nations allied with this country or listed among the United Nations aggregated $1,411,000,000 and articles awaiting transfer or use totaled $488,000,000.

The rest of the $2,570,000,000 was made up of $128,000,000 of articles in process of manufacture, $126,000,000 in servicing and repair of ships, $243,000,000 in rental and charter of ships, $170,000,000 in production facilities in the United States and $4,000,000 in miscellaneous expenses.

Users of Sugar Soon Will Sign For Their Ration

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The war production board said today it had tentatively decided that approximately 12,000 big and little industrial users of sugar would register for monthly supplies at the same time that household users are registering for sugar rationing.

The W. P. B. and office of price administration reached the agreement after it had previously decided to register industrial users prior to the householders registration.

Another government agency will register the industrial users, under W. P. B. direction, while school teachers are expected to register the householders under O. P. A. instruction. Definite dates have not been fixed but it was indicated they might be during the last week of March or the first week of April.

Sugar will be allotted to bakers, confectioners, bottlers and other industrial users on a percentage basis of their use in a base period not yet announced.

Information supplied by the industrial consumers on the registration forms will give W. P. B. a picture of their average sugar use and assist in fixing the appropriate base period.

Many small industrial consumers have been threatened with shutdown through unwillingness of distributors and retailers to sell them enough sugar to maintain operations, the Office of Price Administration has reported.

Aussies May Spoil Myth That Japan Can't Be Stopped

Apparent Offensive Spirit Indicates Same Grim Attitude of Reds at Invasion

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

The Australians are meeting the menace of Japanese invasion in their traditional fighting spirit—with offensive strategy.

Instead of waiting for the Nipponese to get neatly set in their recently acquired bases on the island of New Guinea for a major bombing assault on the neighboring mainland, the still small but mighty Australian air force has carried the war to the enemy. At least five Japanese transports and one warship were smashed yesterday, and the toll is believed to be bigger.

It took the Russians to crack the myth that Hitler had created a fighting machine which just couldn't be stopped. Maybe it will be Australia's shores against which the Mikado's galleys will break their noses.

Certainly that represents the Allied determination, for America and Britain are rushing reinforcements to this last remaining and consequently absolutely vital large base remaining to them in the southwest Pacific. Australia must be held at all costs for an offensive base, and the job must be done mainly by the air force. Many more warplanes are needed, and success will depend in large degree on how many the Allies can rush to the scene in the immediate future.

Of course we still have to learn what the Japs have in mind. It

Churchill Holds Forth Dominion Opportunity to India

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Australian bombers struck smashing blows at Japanese warships today and claimed to have sunk or damaged at least seven, but unofficial reports say that the enemy's great invasion-bent convoys continued moving toward their eventual jumping-off bases in New Guinea.

It seemed clear that the battle for the approaches to Australia was now raging in full fury. Hitting their hardest blows of the war on the gathering Japanese invasion armada, Australian airmen were reported to have sunk at least two ships and left five others beached, battered and burned.

Three waves of R.A.A.F. bombers pounded the Japanese fleet yesterday and the aerial counter-blasts were continuing today.

British dispatches from Canberra said Japanese invasion fleets were reported moving toward Port Moresby, on the south coast of New Guinea, 300 miles from the Australian mainland.

Australian planes were said to be continuously attacking the enemy ships.

A bulletin from Royal Australian Air Force headquarters said waves of Australian bombers inflicted havoc on the Japanese sea-borne forces in yesterday's raids, attacking a cruiser, setting two ships afire, leaving another "large ship" burning, and scoring several direct hits on a warship.

A series of follow-up attacks "recorded further hits and near misses," the communiqué said.

"When the aircraft left the target area (from the final attack), one ship was burned out and three others were on fire. Two of them were sinking and one was being beached," the account said.

Other hits were believed to have raised the toll still higher.

In Tokyo, apparently unmasking Japan's next move, a government spokesman warned Australia "to yield without a fight or suffer 'the same fate that has befallen Singapore and Java.'"

On other fronts in the Far Pacific:

With signs pointing toward an early Japanese attack on India, Prime Minister Churchill in London held out to India's 400,000,000 a promise of dominion status in full as soon after the war as possible.

It was also announced that Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's energetic lord privy seal, and government spokesman in the House of Commons, would go to India for consultation with leaders there who have been clamoring for immediate independence as the price for India's support in the war.

In the dying battle of Java, a Domei dispatch said the Dutch commander, Lieut.-Gen. Hein Ter Poorten, had ordered all Netherlands troops on the island to lay down their arms.

Imperial headquarters asserted that the Japanese had captured 93,000 troops, including 2,000 commissioned officers, in the Indies' invasion—a scaling down of yesterday's claim of 98,000 taken in Java alone.

In Melbourne, Lieut.-Gov. Hubertus J. Van Mook of the Dutch Indies said about 3,000 Australian troops were probably still fighting in the mountain jungles east and west of Bandoeng, the Japanese-occupied former military capital, and that other defenders were battling in eastern Java.

Van Mook said Allied forces carrying on the fight in unoccupied sectors of the 622-mile-long island were under orders not to obey commands from authorities who had fallen into Japanese hands.

In London, authoritative quarters acknowledged that the strength of the main Japanese battle fleet had "not been impaired" by Japan's far-flung sweeps of conquest and declared that Japan could now be expected to lash out in three directions—against Ceylon, off the southern tip of India; against Australia, or farther east toward the Fiji Islands.

Handled With Care
Waterbury, Conn. — No one would go near a box standing in a bank street doorway. It ticked. Police were called and Detective Lieutenant Edward McElligott took a chance, marched up to the box, peered into a small opening. A small eye looked back at him, a pink whisker protruded. It belonged to a white mouse, one of 12 in the box.

Watch Out, Wash Out
Bremerton, Wash. — Doubtful about navy smoke screens? Ask Bremerton housewives—especially those who do their own washing. Wind carried the black, oily smoke into town, camouflaging many a freshly laundered shirt hanging on the line.

When a gunman entered a cleaning shop where she clerked, she turned on her heel scornfully and walked to the rear of the store. CITY AND STATE

Hollander Cites Beauty for Morale

Ithaca, N. Y., March 10 — "I have a home in Ithaca, Holland, which I respect and love. I wonder if it still stands the way it was when I left it, and the way I fondly remember it."

So says Herman Schouten, a Hollander who has taken out his first papers for American citizenship, in a talk with Prof. L. H. MacDaniels of the floriculture department at Cornell.

"I have looked with concern on the possibility that over-enthusiasm and women here in America might misinterpret your victory garden program and sacrifice to material values alone. "Perhaps I can best explain my thought in this way; I picture my home as a place of modest beauty, well kept with its accustomed plantings of shrubs, roses, vines, tulips and other flowers. I know that my morale would be seriously affected if I had to think that those beautiful plantings were to be ruthlessly torn out and replaced by a food crop. What would please me most is to know that the beauty of my home is being preserved and that in addition certain food crops were being grown to supplement the family larder.

"Now that I recall trips to several European countries and to Great Britain, it is clear to me why the British have always kept their spirits. The individual Briton is really defending a home and garden in which he has spent many happy hours, and in which he wants his family and children to continue in freedom and beauty. During one of my crossings of the Atlantic I talked to a British sailor who told me that he worked in his garden during all the time ashore and spoke with special pride of a geranium he had grown with flowers of two colors!

"The morale of a nation is largely determined by the beauty of the homes its citizens defend. The men of America are leaving for the war, to be as far away from home as I am, with a firm belief that their homes are going to be kept just as beautiful as they ever were.

"When even the apartment-dwellers of England can find time between bombings to tend their hanging baskets of flowers, Americans will retain the beauty of ornamental plantings, and will find renewed courage and strengthened morale by giving intended emphasis to both food for the body and flowers for the spirit."

Grange News

Pomona Grange
(official report)

The Ulster County Pomona Grange assembled in the Clintondale Grange for an afternoon and evening meeting, its regular quarterly meeting.

The Worthy Master I. C. Barnes, presided and opened the Grange in the 5th degree. A prayer was offered by the chaplain, and the song "In the Garden" was then sung by all. The salute to the flag followed.

The report of the last meeting was read by the secretary, and accepted by the members.

The Grange then closed in the fifth degree and opened in the fourth to allow fourth degree members to enter.

The report of Overseer Barnhart was very gratifying to all when he stated that the Grange Insurance Company, had reached a goal of a 100% increase in the past year. A meeting of the company will be held shortly.

The Treasurer, Brother Bloomer gave his report and requested the books be audited at each meeting.

It was suggested that Pomona cancel the dues of the members in service for the duration of the service.

The chairman of the Radio Committee announced that she had been advised that the Grange would be expected to follow up their weekly programs, or drop them, so due to shortage of tires and gas, the program was voted dropped. County Agent, Al Kurdt invited the various subordinate members to present their programs in conjunction with the Farm and Home program.

Mrs. William Hickey, chairman of the Service Hospital Committee for 1941, gave an acceptable report of the work for the past year. The new chairman, Sister Mary Bell, of Highland is reported ill, and unable to be present.

Chairman of the Fair Committee, Albert Kurdt, said plans for being made for the annual Fair and Picnic Day in August at Forsyth Park.

I. C. Barnes, president of the Fair Committee, added that some additions had been made and some entries dropped. He said he had been told in Albany by the State fair committee that war-time use of the fair grounds would be no time to drop a project so useful to the morale of the people.

The reports of twelve of the subordinate granges had been received by the secretary and were read.

Communications followed, a letter of thanks from the family of Thomas McManus, for flowers, and a note of regret from Sister Bell, who was unable to attend the meeting, and announcing the date of the annual luncheon as March 26. It is expected that the State chairman of the S. & H. committee will attend the luncheon.

Mrs. George W. Sallie was appointed press correspondent for Pomona Grange.

The superintendent of schools of lower Ulster county gave a very helpful talk on the sugar rationing problem. The registration dates are March 14, 15, 16, 17 from 4 to 7 o'clock. He stressed the enormity of the undertaking and the short period of time in which to register and urged everyone to register promptly.

Five Granges were represented at a legislative committee meeting in Kingston on the evening of March 5, and all granges were urged to send representatives to the next meeting.

The following resolutions were presented and acted upon favorably.

That as the state contributes millions of dollars for home relief which involves costly setup all the way from Albany to the family receiving relief that the Ulster County Pomona Grange ask the state legislature to consider abolishing state aid, and, even if gradually relegate to local communities the dispensation of home relief.

That the practice of setting clocks ahead creates a shorter day for farm work and will result in a lessening of food for national defense and well being that in the interest of the farmer we oppose any further change in time.

That the county Grange recommends that vacation periods be adjusted to conform to the farm planting and harvesting season, bearing in mind the needs of the children rather than grant the 30-day period of legally excusing pupils from school.

That the state legislature be asked to reduce, rather than increase, all expenditures not absolutely necessary to vital functioning of government and national defense.

That Pomona Grange register opposition to any and all of the so-called standardized procedures which make it difficult and sometimes impossible for farmers to secure adequate relief.

That the state and federal legislators be asked to remove all direct and indirect restrictions and restraints upon the free and general employment of hired help—such restraint for example as the acceptance of private employment causing a man to lose his standing in the WPA.

The following resolutions, affecting only Grange members were introduced and passed:

That Ulster County Pomona recommend to all subordinate granges that the legislative chairman in each grange be asked at each meeting to give a short report on legislative measures and that a discussion be held on the report. All of this to the end that Grange members be made familiar with current events and that the various Granges be really representative of the opinions of the members.

A discussion followed the passing of these resolutions and the worthy master said that it was a matter of pride to the people of New Paltz that they had no WPA projects. He also stated that Marjorie Lane, a WPA due to the fact that employment was found for everyone.

Jacob Schrieber said that Grangers should oppose foolish spending on bills of no value to anyone. He added that 1,483 bills were introduced in the present legislature and hoped to be able as a representative of the county tax committee to explain some of the bills later on.

The master regretted the inability of all granges to have members of the legislature as their members. Milton has among its members Representative Sister Young.

Stone Ridge, Sister Vanderburg and New Paltz, Brother Schrieber.

Ralph Johnson suggested the Grange send additional copies of the resolutions to Washington and Brother Kurdt suggested that the state legislature be asked to keep the Grange informed on the acts of legislature in Albany.

Sister Young urged each individual to write to the legislators and voice opinions concerning proposed laws.

Sister Vanderburg cited the case of the raw milk resolutions whereby farmers were prohibited from serving raw milk to boarders. It was the direct result of the appeals of the grangers which caused the vetoing of this bill.

The afternoon session closed at 5:45 o'clock and dinner was served by the Clintondale Grange members.

Following the opening of the Grange the lecturer, Sister Gladys Mears presented an interesting program.

Worthy Deputy Harold V. Story awarded the prizes for the gain in membership in the following granges:

Stone Ridge, a gain of 10; $2 in defense stamps.

New Paltz, a gain of 10, $2 in defense stamps.

Lake Katrine, a gain of 11, $2 in defense stamps.

Hurley, a gain of 34, $5 defense bond.

Rosendale, a gain of 64, $10 defense bond.

As a wind-up for the day Albert Kurdt gave a most inspiring address on the value of co-operating with the government to the end that we may see the light of peace again.

Before adjournment it was announced that the Grange had accepted the invitation of the Plattekill Grange to hold the June meeting there.

Our new officers were installed by Brother Ross Osterhout and team of Stone Ridge. The installation was preceded by a turkey banquet served in the dining room which had been beautifully decorated with miniature Christmas trees and candles.

Santa Claus was present at the Christmas meeting and ten cent gifts, and candy were distributed. An appropriate program of recitations, music and plays was presented.

We subscribed to the National Grange Monthly for our officers. We have held two very successful suppers followed by old-fashioned modern dancing. Also held a Victory dance in January.

Our lecturer, Sister Thompson, attended the Lecturer's school in Newburgh.

A collection for the "March of Dimes" was taken in January. Our Service and Hospitality Committee have started a series of card parties and are collecting books for the "Victory Book Campaign."

A $10 defense bond was purchased by last year's S. & H. Committee and turned over to the Grange treasurer.

Two of our sisters planned and are conducting a series of games and brain-teasers. They are called "Pastimes with Pencils and Play." The scores of all participants are recorded at each meeting and a grand prize will be given to the person having the highest score at the end of June.

Our first community party on December 12, was such a grand success and enjoyed by all that we have been having them once a month.

We had our annual Christmas party and program with gifts presented to all present.

We were loathe to give up our Master Crowell Sheeley, who had been our leader for four years, but with our new Master, Virgil Sheeley (Crowell's brother) and District Superintendent Lester J. Roosa as lecturer we are anticipating a successful year.

Our installation team did some work through the county and the money from this was turned over to the Red Cross.

On February 5, the S. and H. committee, with Sister Anna DuBois as general chairlady, put on a cafeteria supper. Everyone spoke the highest praise for the good food and wonderful cooperation of all, and as a result, the financial success certainly proved that it was a fine event. Our lecturer's programs have been excellent, and as a result the attendance has been very inspiring. We're striving to make 1942 a banner year.

Police Arrest Trio In Reich Slaying

Two Ex-Convicts, Dancer
Are Apprehended After Several Days' Search

New York, March 11 (AP)—Two ex-convicts and a dancer were charged today with the strangulation-slaying of wealthy Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, Polish refugee.

They were booked as John D. Cullen, Eli Shonbrun and Madeline Webb, and charged with homicide and "acting in concert in the homicidal death" of Mrs. Reich, whose body was found last Thursday in an east side hotel where she had gone for a luncheon.

The trio was picked up yesterday and last night, first Cullen and then the other two after Cullen revealed their whereabouts. Police of 11 states had sought them since Saturday.

Shonbrun, 33, and Miss Webb, 28, were taken into custody by Detective Lieutenant Daniel J. Mahoney in a Bronx rooming house. Mahoney said he found the stone from Mrs. Reich's $1,500 diamond ring under the former showgirl's pillow.

Cullen, 45, has a police record of six arrests and one conviction for petty larceny for which he served three months in 1939.

Shonbrun, who served time five years ago on a grand larceny charge and who had been arrested several times, has a wife and 7-year-old son.

Miss Webb, who with Shonbrun had been registered at the Hotel Sutton as "Mr. and Mrs. Ted Leopold," had been friendly with Mrs. Reich for two years and had invited her to luncheon on the day of the slaying.

Mrs. Reich was the wife of Max Reich, New Jersey wax manufacturer, with whom she had lived in another New York hotel.

Red Cross News

Charles Walton, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross, appealed today to local women to enroll for training in a Volunteer Nurse's Aide Corps. Women wishing to volunteer for service in the Nurse's Aide Corps are asked to apply at once to the Office of Civilian Defense at 247 Clinton avenue.

"The defense emergency has revealed an acute shortage of nurses not only here in Ulster county but all over the country," Mr. Walton pointed out. "To meet the urgent nursing service needs of hospitals, clinics and other health agencies, the Office of Civilian Defense, with which the American Red Cross is collaborating, has issued a nation-wide appeal for 100,000 women to take training to serve as aides to graduate nurses."

"Should there be a great emergency, such as the epidemic influenza which followed the World War, our present local nursing resources might prove inadequate to handle the situation," Mr. Walton said. "We have a community responsibility here in Ulster county to see that our civilian health services are not only adequately maintained, but are prepared to meet any such emergency. We can only do it if a local group of competent and devoted women will volunteer to assist our hard-working graduate nurses. By learning how to perform simple routine duties in hospitals and clinics, these volunteers can release the professional nurse for the highly technical work which only she can perform. In addition they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are playing a vitally important role in civilian defense."

In announcing the American Red Cross arrangements for a special intensive 80 hours instruction course, volunteers should be between the ages of 18 and 50, able to serve without remuneration and to give at least 150 hours of their time every year.

The first half of the training course will be regarded as probationary period and requires two hours of instruction daily on five days a week for four weeks. The second half of the course consists of supervised practice in Kingston Hospital and Benedictine Hospital, which has been designated as training centers.

After completing the course, the volunteer will be expected to give 150 hours of service on hospital wards, after which she may be assigned to hospitals, clinics, health department, school health, industrial hygiene or other services. Her duties will be many and varied, but she will always work under the supervision of a graduate nurse.

Mr. Walton announced the formation of a special Nurse's Aide Committee in the local Red Cross Chapter. This committee will enroll applicants for the training course, select the instructors, be responsible for maintaining standards and discipline for the corps which will meet with the approval of the nursing profession, and co-operate with the Office of Civilian Defense.

Kerhonkson
At a meeting of the Red Cross held at the home of Mrs. Abram, Mrs. Amy Stevens presiding, much enthusiasm was displayed and the unit has started plans for raising funds.

A total of 270 sweaters and 147 pairs of socks were turned in as the Kerhonkson contribution.

Mrs. Frances Zaffert headed the Roger Bauer concert and dance, given under the auspices of the Kerhonkson Red Cross unit, at which time the sum of $115 was realized and donated to the Red Cross war fund. At a food sale held at the Victory Store and the B. & F. food market and headed by Mrs. Pearl Krom, assisted by Mrs. Abram, Popple Holmstock, Albert and Mrs. Sol Bronstien, the sum of $116 was raised for the Kerhonkson unit.

Friday, March 20, Kerhonkson is anticipating an enjoyable evening at cards, to be held at the fire hall.

U. S. Sets Ceiling On Tires, Tubes To End Gouging

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The government has answered widespread complaints of price gouging with an order setting a ceiling on prices of used tires and tubes on the basis of prices prevailing between October 1 and October 15. The ceiling becomes effective March 16. On standard four-ply 6.00 x 16 tires, the type used by most motorists, it varies from $8.10 to $1.50, depending on wear. The order prohibits dealers from adding any charges for repairs or service charges which were not made by the seller prior to March 7.

Directly at the close of the service the adult class for church membership will convene in the Sunday school rooms.

Woman Is Found Guilty of Killing Mamaroneck Boy

White Plains, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Black Milligan, 36-year-old Harrison clubwoman, was convicted in Westchester county court last night of killing an 11-year-old boy through negligent operation of her automobile.

Mrs. Milligan, who said she had several drinks including a Scotch and soda and a couple of "Singapore Slings" before the car struck Anthony Rigano of Mamaroneck last December 19, is liable to a penalty of five years in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Wife of Edward D. W. Milligan, landscape architect and World War naval officer, she was the first woman to be prosecuted in Westchester county under the 1936 statute making the crime a felony. The prosecution charged that Mrs. Milligan, who was accompanied by two men, was driving 50 miles an hour when her car ran down the boy, and that she fled the scene.

She returned half an hour later, Assistant District Attorney Joseph F. Gagliardi added, and this time had three children with her in the car.

Mrs. Milligan testified that she was driving only 25 miles an hour and that she drove away from the accident scene in fear of an angry crowd that had gathered.

Local Women Democrats Hear Address by Mayor

"Politics have not harmed women" and "women have not harmed politics," Mayor William F. Edelmuth told members of the Democratic Women's Club of Kingston at a meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday evening. The mayor pointed to the prominent and effective part women are playing in current politics, and the women, he added, have been "an enormous factor in establishing better government."

Every ward in the city was represented at the meeting and the following were appointed to arrange a social program for the next meeting Monday, April 13: Mrs. Robert Liscom, Mrs. Sylvester Bujak, Mrs. Howard Emerick and Miss Frances Dunn. The committee plans to serve refreshments.

Diphtheria, a completely preventable disease, killed 1,457 persons in the United States last year, according to Census records.

Union Speeds Courses

Schenectady, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Union College, in a new move to speed up its program for the war period, will admit freshmen as candidates for the A. B. or B. S. degrees on June 22, 1942, and allow them to graduate as early as Christmas, 1944, President Dixon Ryan Fox announced today in a bulletin describing "the college in war time". Regular admission of technical course freshmen will be deferred until September 8, when candidates for other courses may also enter if they prefer. In case of sufficient demand, engineering freshmen will be admitted on June 22 to take a summer course in drawing. This will help to ease the heavy engineering schedule later in the year, but will not advance the date of graduation.

Ulster County's Red Cross War Fund goal of $45,000 is now in sight, with the total having passed the $40,000 mark. Solicitors have canvassed the homes and have done a creditable job. However, some have been missed because they were not at home when workers called. It is through the contributions of these people that Ulster County now will go over the top.

These workers who have volunteered their time and energy in this great cause will gladly call for any contribution. If any person who has not been contacted will notify the Town or Ward chairman, a worker will be assigned to collect the contribution. A call to the local Red Cross office at 273 Fair Street also will bring a worker. Contributions also may be made direct to the local chapter headquarters on Fair Street.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the efforts and sacrifices made by Red Cross workers.

Sharing in the work of the Red Cross should make us all feel happy and proud, because we know the money will be used to relieve suffering and ease distress both on the battlefield and in the communities exposed to hardships inevitable under war conditions.

The Red Cross is going to need every cent of money raised. We are sure that the same spirit of loyalty and service which has been manifested here will be continued until Ulster County has reached its goal.

SERIOUS MOTHER GOOSE

Little Jack Horner, who sat in a corner, eating his Christmas pie, was a real person who lived under Henry VIII of England, about 400 years ago. That is the discovery made by Katherine E. Thomas, who has been making a study of our old nursery friend, Mother Goose. The Christmas pie contained, in accordance with the fantastic fashion of the time, a title-deed, done up in ribbon, presented by the king to his good friend Jack Horner.

A lot of other nursery favorites, says Miss Thomas, go back to the same time. Little Boy Blue as a satire on Cardinal Wolsey, Henry VIII's unlucky prime minister, and Little Bo-peep was no other than that tragic victim, Mary Queen of Scots.

This is all very sad. Here we have gone through life riding a cock horse to Banbury Cross, and envying the good fortune of Richard and Robin, the two pretty men who lay in bed till the clock struck ten. We never dreamed that we were learning history. If reading Mother Goose is improving our minds, what a jolt!

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE

What stories there will be for future historians and novelists to tell, when this incredible war is over—if it ever is! Here's just one little incident that turned up in the London news the other day.

An English correspondent in Batavia, capital of the Dutch East Indies, walking along the street, heard someone behind him demanding, "Say, guy, where's this war?" Turning around, he observed two very rumpled and bedraggled strangers, one in flying clothes, trying to get their bearings. They had been shot down near Bali and swam ashore, then got a ride by boat to Java, and now were looking for fresh trouble and new skies to be shot down from.

There's something cosmic not only about the war but about the men in it. There will be many a Mulvaney, Ortheris and Leary roaming the world in the Odysseys of this vast conflict.

BETTER ATHLETES

Cornelius Warmerdam, California school teacher, has just pole vaulted 15 feet, 7 inches. Back in 1908 W. R. Dray astonished the world by clearing 12 feet, 9½ inches, and during prophesies announced that 13 feet might yet be achieved within the lifetime of living men. Now they are talking of 16 feet, and some are wondering what the limit will ultimately be.

That of course is something nobody knows. But war department figures show that the average soldier is somewhat taller and heavier than he was in 1917. It is no wonder that our athletes are getting better. Certainly the medical profession's researches into diet and hygiene ought to have some effect.

The improvement is doubtless not confined to track athletics. Baseball and football technique have improved too. The old-timers will rise up in arms when we say that perhaps Harmon was a faster back than Heston, and Feller may possess more speed than Walter Johnson.

SAD WHEELBARROW

Now that all these suggestions about means of transportation are floating around, bicycles, jinrikishas and little red express wagons, Dobbin the horse and Betsy the burro, the packhorse, the farm tractor and all the rest, we are reminded of an old New England rhyme, supposed to refer to the cowpath streets of Boston town:

"The lanes were so crooked, the streets were so narrow

I brought my wife home in a wheelbarrow. The wheelbarrow broke and my wife had a fall,

And that was the end of wheelbarrow and all!"

It sounds a little as if the lady had not watched her calories with sufficient care. Maybe Mother had better start reducing a bit before she sets forth to do her marketing on Bobby's scooter.

GIVE 'EM A RIDE

The police in Paso Robles, Calif., were very suspicious when they saw four men in army uniform speeding through town at 5:45 a. m. in a large luxurious car. They flagged it and heard an interesting story.

Their suspicion that the soldiers didn't own that car was correct, but it was O.K. On their way back to camp after leave, they happened to tell a prosperous citizen in Santa Barbara that they had to get in by 6 o'clock next morning, and it was going to be a scramble. He reassured them, took them home for dinner, then lent them one of his cars. They could return it, he said, the next week. The police verified their story and they were off in a whirl of dust.

Most citizens wouldn't or couldn't be so generous as that, but a lot of us could do better than we are doing about giving soldiers a lift.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

SLOWNESS, MENTAL AND PHYSICAL

When the physician sees a child that is "dwarfed, sleepy, pot-bellied, alabaster or ivory-skinned, constipated and imbecile," he knows that the thyroid gland is not manufacturing enough juice and so many of the mental and physical processes are working too slowly for the mental and physical progress of the child.

However, physicians now recognize that while a child may not have all the above symptoms, his thyroid gland still may not be manufacturing enough thyroid juice or extract. The fact that his mental and physical condition is not as bad as that mentioned above does not mean, however, that he may not suffer with some of these symptoms to some extent. And it is because his symptoms are not so pronounced that the family and sometimes the physician may think that the child is just "a little slow."

If a child is allowed to remain without enough thyroid extract in his blood, there will be lack of mental and physical development at the most important period in his life for development.

Dr. E. Kost Shelton, Los Angeles, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, states that the element of time is important. A mild degree of hypothyroidism ("typo" means less or under) for a short period at any stage of development, may not be noticed in the mental and physical make-up. Over a period of years, however, even a mild degree of lack of thyroid extract, must have its mark on the mental and physical make-up of the individual.

After pointing out that in mild cases the same conditions in the blood, urine, bones and rate at which body processes work are present, but to a lesser degree than in the pronounced cases, Dr. Shelton states that if lack of thyroid juice is responsible for the symptoms, giving thyroid extract by mouth will cause a disappearance of the symptoms in part, if not completely.

There may be, however, conditions present such as a disturbance of the pituitary gland that may interfere with the action of the thyroid gland in the body.

If your child seems to be slow mentally and physically and it is not due to defective eyes or ears or infection, ask your physician about the possibility of lack of thyroid juice.

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"
By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

I wonder how many older readers recall or have in their possession copies of Picturesque Ulster, a pictorial work of Ulster county with over a thousand original illustrations. This mammoth work was published by the old publishing firm of Styles & Bruyn, who are no longer in business. The first volume of the series was issued in 1896.

As I recall it the first three volumes were devoted to the city of Kingston, and contained many interesting photographs of well known buildings and street scenes in the city.

The work was that of the late R. Lionel DeLisser, a local photographer, who was widely known for his work with the camera. He traveled through every by-lane and road visiting each hamlet and village in Ulster county snapping scenes of buildings and views of streets and scenery.

In those days the automobile was not known of and Artist DeLisser made his tour of Ulster county in a horse and buggy. Many of the photographs taken by Mr. DeLisser are now exceedingly rare as many of the buildings have been torn down, while in the Ashokan reservoir country many of the villages and hamlets are now under water.

With the Broadway crossing project shelved for the duration of the Second World War, I recall that in July, 1924, when the subject was a live issue Alderman Urban G. Edinger of the Ninth Ward advanced a plan for making the railroad crossing "fool proof" as he called it.

Under Alderman Edinger's plan both the Kingston City and the Colonial Division trolley cars would use the old subway under the railroad tracks, while Broadway itself on both sides of the crossing would be widened into the shape of a big "X".

Concrete snubbing posts would be erected on each side of the crossing which would force traffic to twist about the snubs and advance to the crossing proper one vehicle at a time.

It is hardly necessary to state that no action was taken on the alderman's suggestion.

It was on July 23, 1924, that the consistory of the Reformed Church of the Comforter on Wynton Place awarded the contracts for the erection of the present parish house adjacent to the church.

That year the Rev. Wilbur F. Stove was serving that church as its pastor.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—The capital in wartime:

The "District" and adjoining counties in Maryland and Virginia had their first all-night blackout the other night, and officials said it was practically a 100 per cent success—if you can call row after row of darkened residence and business buildings a success.

Fact is, the blackout failed in two important respects:

1. Government buildings (except the White House) were ablaze with light.
2. Many people simply turned out their lights and went to bed or the movies. Thus, while their homes were dark, they weren't doing what civilian defense officials wanted them to do, and that was to make real preparations for a real blackout—like putting up black curtains and such.

By and large, lights from homes were so scarce that they drew special comment from air raid wardens when a few did pierce the gloom. But Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee, on an inspection tour with James M. Landis, national director of the Office of Civilian Defense, commented:

"If the federal government is to remain here during and after an air raid, these buildings that stand out prominently should certainly be blacked out. They make a wonderful target."

Col. Lemuel Bolles, district defense executive, who described the blackout generally as an example of "free men disciplining themselves," explained ruefully that District authorities have "no here on war business.

Already, however, it's apparent there won't be hotel rooms for the thousands who usually attend the D.A.R.'s annual "Continental Congress." In January 663 rooms had been booked, but at latest reports hotels had cancelled more than 150 reservations. More may be dropped because the hostesses have pledged themselves to take care first of people who come here on war business.

You'd think the stories of crowded Washington would make everyone stay away who didn't really have to come here.

But you can't scare the Daughters of the American Revolution! Their by-laws call for them to meet in Washington the week of April 19 (anniversary of the Battle of Lexington), and they're determined to do it.

Osterhoudt to Be Oldtimers' Guest Speaker at Dinner

James F. Osterhoudt, 92, of 105 St. James street, the only living charter member of the Kingston Y. M. C. A., will be the guest of honor at the second annual Old Timers' reunion and dinner at the "Y" on Tuesday evening, March 24. Mr. Osterhoudt was also honored at the first annual reunion held in April, 1941.

At the meeting of the general committee of the reunion held at the "Y" Tuesday night, Ferd Gildersleeve, chairman of the ticket committee, announced that tickets would shortly be ready for distribution. The other members of the committee are: Ray Whitbeck, Edward J. Hillis, Secretary George Goodfellow and H. L. Winters.

The general committee also reported that it had prepared invitations which will be mailed out this week to all former and present members of the "Y" inviting them to be present at the reunion.

Richard C. Dawe, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that arrangements were practically completed for the program of entertainment at the dinner.

This year it is planned to have several four-minute speakers who will talk on both old days and new at the association.

A turkey dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock which will be followed by the speaking and entertainment program.

It was announced that an invitation had been sent to Gus Bonesteel, who for years was chief of the "Y" summer camps and one of the star endmen of the annual minstrel shows to be present at the reunion and meet the old timers.

Clarence S. Rowland, chairman of the reception committee, is busy obtaining members for his committee who will serve that night at the reception.

General Chairman Sam Bernstein said last night that from all indications the reunion this year will prove even bigger and better than the one staged last year.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, March 11.—The Study Club met Tuesday afternoon and the theme for the program was "Books". Mrs. R. Cunningham was the playright in the skit "A Visit to the Centerville Library." Those taking part in the skit were: Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Jerome Hurd, Mrs. Kortright, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. Anna Blowsine, Mrs. Switzer and Mrs. James Neilson. After this interesting program all adjourned to the tea tables and were served with cup cakes and coffee. Mrs. Edith Lundrup was refreshment hostess and was assisted by Mrs. McKenna and Miss Maud Richards. Mrs. Park was responsible for the decorations including the centerpiece of yellow narcissus, lilies and stock and yellow candles. Mrs. Bertha Deniston welcomed the guests.

Miss Olive S. Atkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkinson of New Paltz, was one of 40 students of Syracuse University who visited public libraries, hospitals and recreation centers during National Story Telling Week. Miss Atkinson, who is a sophomore in the School of Public Speech and Dramatic Art, told stories representing different kind of literature.

The Mrs. Rose Alessi property, formerly occupied by the Roberts family at Plutarch, has been sold to Mrs. Stella Catalano of New York.

Miss Elaine LeFevre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay LeFevre, New Paltz, is taking part in a play at Bennington, March 14.

A meeting of agriculture teachers of the Ulster, Orange and Sullivan county centralized schools was held in New Paltz last week.

Frederick Heinsohn, teacher of agriculture at the New Paltz school, was host for the occasion. Necessity of every Future Farmer Association member who does not live on a farm, to get a job on one during the summer, was stressed. Other matters were given special attention by the instructors. After dinner at the Tamney house the teachers adjourned to the high school where they had their evening session. Ralph Sutcliffe of the state education department was guest speaker and discussed the problems confronting the farmers in the present war emergency.

The New Paltz High School Riflemen are preparing for many interesting rifle matches. The calendar for future matches follows: March 10, the William R. Hearst Citizen Marksmanship. This is a 20-shot, 50 feet from sight match, 10 shots prone and 10 shots off-hand, standing. This is the most difficult of all the shooting positions and takes the longest practice in which to become proficient.

Week of March 16: Return match with Walkkill riflemen. April 18: The Junior Riflemen of New Paltz will act as host to all the rifle teams for a shoulder to shoulder match, sponsored by the National Rifle Association of America. Former Local Man Tells of His Part During Jap Sneak

NICK ANGELO

Nick Angelo (he's a corporal now), a former resident of Kingston, where he was employed for some time as chef at the Sea Grill Restaurant on Main street, but for over three years past with the U. S. Army, stationed at Pearl Harbor, is spending a furlough in town, stopping at the Sea Grill.

Corporal Angelo is one of Uncle Sam's boys who took an active part in the fighting during the dastardly surprise attack by Japanese planes on the morning of December 7 and who was wounded while operating a machine gun during the attempt to repel the raiders.

The corporal told a Freeman reporter this morning that he was asleep in his barracks on the day of the Japanese attack when he was awakened about 5 o'clock in the morning by the shrieking of the air raid alarm. He dressed hastily and with the three other members of his machine gun crew made his way to his post, some distance away.

During the action which followed a bomb fell perhaps 100 feet away, the explosion killing one member of another machine gun crew at that point.

Nick says that he was knocked down by the force of the explosion, or at least he supposed that was what felled him. He got up, found no signs of blood or other indication that he had been injured and continued to assist in manning the gun. It was some hours later that he discovered that he had been wounded in the left side of his head. First aid dressing was given him and at 5 o'clock that afternoon he was taken to the hospital, where he remained under treatment for 35 days. The other three members of the gun crew were not injured.

Following his discharge from the hospital on February 15, Corporal Angelo, with a number of other hospital cases, was given a furlough. He came to Kingston on Friday of last week and expects to remain for perhaps a week longer, reporting for duty March 22.

Corporal Angelo is a native of California, where he was born May 16, 1914. He came East and for some years was employed as a chef in New York city. He came to Kingston and was employed for the better part of a year at the Sea Grill, leaving Kingston September 15, 1939.

Three days later, with his brother, Milton Angelo, Nick enlisted for three years in a U. S. infantry regiment and in December went to Hawaii. Both the brothers re-enlisted at the expiration of their three years service.

Public Is Asked Not To Use Telephones

With a surprise blackout scheduled for Kingston and Ulster county some evening this week, Mayor William F. Edelmuth, chairman of the Defense Council, wishes to again call to public attention the importance of refraining from using the telephone during or immediately after the blackout except in cases of real emergency.

In this connection, the mayor issued the following statement today: "It is important that the telephone lines be kept open for the use of defense authorities during this test and indiscriminate calling might block or delay important calls. The public cooperated very well in the last two scheduled blackouts and important civilian defense and other official calls were able to go through promptly. The value of the trial to all of us is to simulate, as far as possible, actual emergency conditions and to learn what is required of us. We realize that there is a very natural urge to reach for a telephone and discuss with a friend the unusual experience of the blackout. However, if everyone will realize that the defense authorities, who are working for our protection, are dependent upon the telephone for communication, we are sure that no one will do anything to interfere with these essential operations."

"There is one other point which I would like to stress and that is that the emergency period does not end immediately with the sounding of the 'All Clear' signal. Defense authorities will be making heavy demands on the telephone facilities for about half an hour after the blackout is ended and people are requested to minimize their telephone usage for at least that period."

To Present Awards

Thursday afternoon Mayor William F. Edelmuth will present safety awards to some 25 drivers of the city's trucks, who have had perfect driving records for the past year. The exercises will be held at 4 o'clock that afternoon in the city court room. Ernest Boehme, safety engineer of the Employers' Group of Albany, will be present at the exercises.

Gardens Discussed

On Wednesday, March 4, a conference was held in the Office of Civilian Defense to discuss Victory Gardens for Woodstock.

Mrs. William Warren and Edmund Brower, representing the Farm Bureau and the 4-H Club of the county came from Kingston to offer suggestions in forming a program. Others present were: Martin Comeau, chairman of the Town Defense Council; Miss Margaret Kenyon, Miss Anita Smith and Miss Alice Henderson.

It was decided that what was waiting for Harrison Wood to return on April 1 Miss Kenyon would act as temporary chairman.

It was also decided that a miniature Farm Bureau be set up in the O. C. D. offices where information and literature would be available for all those interested in the project. All information pertaining to the planting, culture, harvesting and preserving of fruits and vegetables would be given to anyone interested in the Victory Gardens and those who already have existing gardens.

Mrs. Warren suggested that an exhibition might be held in the fall and prizes given for the most successful gardens and for those producing the finest products.

In a few days the O. C. D. will have a supply of the leaflet No. 1, published by the New York State College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Cornell University.

This leaflet is the first of five which will be distributed this spring. Leaflet No. 1 gives a list of what to plant and what not to plant in this region, time of planting, quantities of seeds to buy for a certain area and the approximate time when the vegetables will be ready for use.

Savings Discussed

Last week-end a meeting of workers of the Defense Savings committee met at New York city to discuss plans for the Defense Savings program. The conference was conducted by the staff of the New York State Bureau at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel last Friday and Saturday.

On Friday the conference was divided into various groups for the sales promotion division, women's division, speaker's division and publicity division. Leaders in each division told of the purpose and organization of the plans and methods which might be used to publicize the work for Defense Savings.

Informal conferences were held Saturday at the State Headquarters of Defense Savings Staff, 1270 Sixth avenue. At this time the members and visitors were able to participate as they chose in the informal discussions and forums.

Attending these meetings from Kingston was Mrs. Howard A. Lewis of 12 West Chestnut street, who is chairman of the local committee on Defense Savings.

Liddle Explains Set-Up

The Local Defense Council met at the office of Mayor Edelmuth yesterday afternoon, at which time the mayor introduced Mr. Liddle, field representative of the State Defense Council.

Mr. Liddle explained the set-up of the local Defense Council with particular emphasis upon the relationship of the Volunteer Office to the work of the various defense units represented on the Council.

He stated that volunteer offices had been established throughout the state under a plan laid down by the State Defense Council and that it was the function and purpose of these volunteer offices to register all volunteers for defense work and to refer such volunteers to the proper agencies for placement. The Volunteer Office acted, Mr. Liddle explained, as a sort of employment bureau and in order that its records might be accurate and up-to-date it was important that all defense units report promptly to the office any changes in personnel and that replacements be made through the Volunteer Office.

Following Mr. Liddle's talk, Mayor Edelmuth explained to the Defense Council that the Volunteer Office located at 247 Clinton avenue had recently been undergoing reorganization but that the office was now functioning with a full force of volunteer workers. He asked that all volunteers who were not engaged in volunteer service who had not registered do so without delay. Some volunteers, he understood, had registered last summer at the time the American Legion had undertaken to canvass the city but some of these cards had not been turned in to the Volunteer Office. He asked that if any volunteer was in doubt about his registration card being on file he communicate with the Volunteer Office. It was planned in the near future, he stated, to issue identification cards to all volunteers in the defense effort and no such cards would be issued without certification from the Volunteer Office of the registration of the volunteer.

Mayor Edelmuth further stated that a central publicity committee composed of representatives of the two local newspapers and the radio station had been established and requested that all future publicity relating to the defense effort be submitted to this publicity committee through the Volunteer Office.

Mr. Burnett, representing the New York Telephone Company, spoke with appreciation of the cooperation which all residents of Kingston had shown during the last blackout in refraining from the use of the telephone service and expressed the hope that similar cooperation would be shown during the surprise blackout scheduled during this week. It was important, he stated, that the telephone wires be free for official business during the blackout and that the telephone service should not be used for other than defense purposes.

Amended Budget Statement Issued By Senator Wicks

Albany, March 11.—The 1942-43 net operating budget for the State of New York is $374,838,251.11, according to State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, in a statement made as the amended executive budget came before the upper house of the legislature Tuesday following adoption by the assembly.

The figure quoted by Senator Wicks represents a net reduction of $2,229,337.92 under the $377,067,589.03 figure of the governor's budget, substantiating claims of the Republican majority of the legislature that a cut would be effected beyond that which had been anticipated by the governor himself in his earlier supplement to his own estimate.

This final net estimate included in the amended budget as submitted by Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, chairman of the assembly ways and means committee.

Analysis disclosed that the budget figures and Senator Wicks' statement do not include several conjectural increased appropriations for which legislation would be required, the only addition being that of full state aid for schools. This last item is not an addition under existing law, since it would require renewal of an amendment to bring about continuation of the 2 per cent reduction in state aid recommended by the governor.

Continuation of state aid is essential under current conditions because of the increased use of schools being made for many patriotic, defense and war effort purposes, for which there is no provision for reimbursement for any of the additional costs of fuel, light, janitor service and the like, the statement points out.

"These added activities on the part of our schools have considerably increased their cost of operation," Senator Wicks points out. "School buildings which were ordinarily closed before 5 p. m. each day are now in use until very late at night, six days a week."

Decreased attendance, inasmuch as state aid is paid on the basis of school attendance, will probably be responsible for the state spending less this year with full state aid than it spent last year with reduced state aid, he also asserts. Reduced attendance will not mean, however, that the schools will need less money, since "we all know that the overhead expenses of running a school are substantially the same whether it be run at full capacity or at near capacity."

Store Owners Responsible

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The Office of Civilian Defense, holding department and specialty store owners directly responsible for the safety of patrons and employees, today issued a pamphlet outlining air raid protective measures.

"The problem of how to minimize danger to massed groups of people in stores during enemy air raids requires careful preparation," the 15-page illustrated pamphlet says. "Obviously, there is danger of a greater number of persons being injured in such concentrated groups than there is in dispersed elements of a community. Similarly, the danger of panic is more acute."

Father Was Right!

When I was adolescent, in other words—a youth, I wasn't acquiescent to much advice; in truth, my eyes with glamor glistened, I dreamed of days ahead. And very seldom listened to things my father said. I thought, "Oh, he's old-fashioned, he doesn't understand. The hopes of youth imprisoned or what I've dreamed and planned. Poor dad, his mind is logy and narrow in its scope. He's such a dull old foggy, I scorn his line of dope. I'm older now; behold me admitting frankly, quite. That what my father told me was pretty nearly right! Had I but hearkened to father, I would have dodged, I know. Much loss and fret and bother, much toil and pain and woe. Yet I'm not much regretting I was a heedless elf. For I've had fun in getting experience, myself!"

—Berton Braley.

Dad—Son, I never knew what it was to kiss a girl until I courted your mother. I wonder if you will be able to say the same to your children.

Son—I think so, dad, but not with such a straight a face as yours.

We Americans should have faith that the best is yet to be. An American armed force has always accomplished what it set out to do. The First World War called to us, and we responded, regardless of cost and sacrifice, until victory was won. The worst depressions held us in its grip, but as true Americans we fought it out, and with no revolution. Today comes another challenge, as grave as one is compelling. We ask for but one thing—a decent world to live in.

Friend—What are you doing now, Sam?

SHOW BOAT GIRL

By ROBERTA COURTLAND

YESTERDAY, Melissa Marlowe is a light tender on the lower Mississippi, and the first change of importance that has come into the lives of herself and her old grandmother is when she has had young hunter stumble into her path during a storm, and Melissa brings him home. His name is Tana Hendricks, he tells the Marlowes, and there is something in the way he looks at Melissa that worries Grandma Marlowe.

Chapter Three

Frank Request

RANDY was young, not more than twenty-five. He was good-looking, with dark hair and eyes, and an olive skin that had been burned to a warm mahogany color by the southern sun. He was tall and well-built. In short, he was the very young man, Gran was terribly afraid, to cause Melissa a great deal of pain and unhappiness, because he would stay today and maybe tomorrow—and then he would go away and they would never see him again. And Melissa would break his child's heart about him.

Missella was sixteen. And though in this almost forgotten, semi-tropical back-country many

"Mr. Hendricks, I don't want my little girl hurt."

Randy colored a little beneath the look in her shrewd eyes, but he answered instantly, "I'm not going to hurt her, Mrs. Marlowe. She's—well, she's lovely and all that—but she's just a child."

Gran nodded. "If you'll just treat her like a child and not try to—well, to make her remember you, I'll appreciate it."

"You mean, of course, if I won't try to make love to her, don't you?" said Randy, and his jaw was set and grim. "Well, you can set your mind at rest about that, Mrs. Marlowe. For if she were twenty, and I were mad about her, I wouldn't make love to her. Women—well, they don't play much part in my plans for the future."

"Then you're more of a fool than you look," said Gran succinctly. Randy laughed. "Maybe," he agreed, but despite his laugh and twinkle that lived for a moment in his dark eyes he was quite in earnest. "Look, Mrs. Marlowe, I came up the hard way in life. I was a doorstep baby—left on a friendly doorstep by a mother or father who didn't care to be bothered with me. I grew up sort of hit-or-miss—mostly miss. I went to school when I couldn't escape it; I sold newspapers; I battled for every inch I ever gained; I'm—well, I'm doing all right for myself just at present. But I've got girls of sixteen were married and many of them mothers. Gran wanted Melissa to go on being a little girl just as long as she could. And as long as personable young men stayed out of her life, Gran felt quite sure she could keep Melissa a child! But there was a look in Melissa's eyes when she met Randy's interested, admiring gaze that shook Gran badly, so that when Melissa started out in the hour before dusk to light the lamp, and Randy said eagerly he'd go with her, Gran protested sharply.

"I don't want my little girl hurt."

"Stay here, Mr. Hendricks—I'd like to talk to you. Been a long time since I've had a chance to talk to anybody but a child like Liss."

"I'm almost seventeen," said Melissa swiftly. "You're a month past your sixteenth birthday," Gran protested flatly. "And you go on and tend the light. Me and Mr. Hendricks will be here when you get back."

Randy said, unwilling, "But is it quite safe for her to go alone? Her path's pretty lonely."

"Day for eight years—or else in her rowboat—I reckon she'll be safe one more time," said Gran drily. And Melissa, looking at Gran, knew there was no use arguing. But she went swift as the wind along the path, her oiled skin slicker buttoned tight beneath her chin, her young heart was mutinous. What right had Gran to deny her the pleasure of Randy's company on this walk?

Of course it was raining and storming, but she and Randy wouldn't have minded that. And by tomorrow Randy would be gone—and she'd never see him again. And somehow the thought of that was a acute pain. She'd never been really lonely before, because this was the only world, the only life she had ever known. When she had listened, absorbed, fascinated, to her mother's stories of New Orleans and the world away from Black Point, she had never thought that some day she might see those places; that she might leave the Point and the old cabin and see paved streets and city lights and shop-windows and hear music.

Point Blank

RANDY seemed a little like a visitor from some strange world, and she wanted to spend every possible moment with him. So why should Gran have denied her Randy's presence on the walk to the Point and back? Meanwhile back at the cabin Gran was saying quietly, levelly,

It Takes Tough Men To Get Tough Metal

Wide World Features
Stibnite, Idaho.—If Stibnite looks like a ghost town to a tenderfoot it's because all the miners are down in the earth getting out tungsten.

You may not know it, stranger, but this mountain village away up in the everlasting hills of Idaho is aiming to produce one-fourth of the nation's requirements of that vital defense metal by June.

It takes hard men to produce hard metal, metal so tough its plates, guns and armor plating, armor plating, armor plating.

These men at Stibnite are so hard they're hauling out ore concentrate over a back-breaking road that men of weaker fiber said couldn't be kept open. The snow is four feet deep on the level, if you can find any level spot. Two men froze to death in the area this winter.

Before the Bradley Mining Co., a San Francisco concern, got its winter operations underway, the skeptics said a new road would have to be built, a road that would cost $1,000,000.

It's 80 miles from Stibnite to the railroad at Cascade, in Idaho's mountainous and misnamed Valley county that's still away up in the air. About 30 tons of metal comes out over that 80 miles every day.

By June the company expects to double its output, have 250 or 300 men working instead of 150 and get out 20,000 units of tungsten concentrate per month. That's about 240,000 pounds of tungsten ore.

The workings produce antimony and cinnabar, too. Gold and silver are there, also, but those ordinarily precious metals aren't so important in war time. Stibnite is no grass-roots, get-rich-and-get-out diggings. It's more ardent backers say there is enough ore blocked out to keep the trucks hauling ore until the Landmark Summit is worn down to a button. And that's more than a mile high, mister.

Who's Nehru?

Suave, Educated, Rich Man's Son Is the Champion of 'Poor India'

England needs desperately the help of India's 353 million people, both at the front and in war industries. India is willing to help but only in return for her independence. Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, high school graduate, Mohandas K. Gandhi as leader of the Indian independence movement and The British Empire is now negotiating with him, the current No. 1 man of the Orient.

Wide World Features

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, leader of India's movement for independence, in many ways may be considered a parallel to the United States Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Roosevelt comes of wealthy, capitalistic stock; Nehru's father, Motilal, is one of India's greatest lawyers and richest men.

Roosevelt went to Groton and Harvard; Nehru attended Harrow School in England and won his degree with honors at old Trinity College, Cambridge. Both are lawyers. Neither works at his profession right now.

Both might be expected to favor strong capitalist systems of government and unregulated business. Neither does.

Nehru's political philosophy is far to the left of Roosevelt's. Nehru wants to socialize India politically and industrially and at the same time fully modernize and develop her tremendous industrial potentialities. In this he is in opposition to his beloved idol, Mohandas Gandhi, who wants independence from Great Britain but also wants India to return to her peasant, handicraft economic system.

A polished, cultured gentleman, Nehru's Occidental clothes contrast with his Nationalist party native headgear. So did his appearance as a successful lawyer before the High Court of Allahabad contrast with his seven years of political imprisonment in several of India's jails.

An English Gentleman

Nehru once lived like any wealthy, well-educated Indian or Englishman of good tastes. He was then and still is genial, attractive, a charming dinner companion.

Mackey, Christopher Dohrman and S. D. Farham on the board of trustees These men were elected later to succeed themselves. The first two for a term of three years and the latter for the one-year term. It was voted to decrease the number of trustees from eleven to nine. The chairman called upon the treasurers of each of the societies: Mrs. A. W. Williams for the Ladies' Aid; Mrs. M. P. Busch for the Sunday school; Miss Laura Harcourt for sunshine; Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail, the Mission Circle; Mrs. A. W. Lent, the Evening Reading Circle; The Tuxis Society was not represented. Each treasurer reported a balance on hand and each society had met their obligations.

The budget for the coming year was placed upon the blackboard and in the vote it was adopted for the amount of $3,384.32. Mr. Busch said that the trustees were going out within a few weeks to make personal calls upon each one in the congregation and thus secure their pledges for the coming year. The trustees were interested in getting an informal vote on the removal of the church sheds. The opinions expressed in a written vote of 20 in favor of their removal and six to keep them. Mr. Haynes asked that no steps toward their being taken down be taken until the anniversary in May. Oliver J. Tillson as clerk for the congregation had excellent minutes of the meeting.

Clarence W. Rathgeb and W. D. Corwin were re-elected elders of the church at the meeting of which W. D. Corwin was clerk. Mr. Haynes reported for the activities of the session and of his duties. The elders had held 12 meetings and during the winter conducted a form at the meetings. There were 17 members received; five members had died and five dismissed to other churches. There was a membership of 244. He had baptized six; officiated at 10 marriages, and at 12 funerals. Roscoe Wood was re-elected deacon.

It was decided to have the church doors open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 p. m. during Holy Week so that anyone might enter for personal devotions.

New York, March 11 (AP)—Suave New Yorkers were taken down a peg today when the would-be sophisticated metropolis was found the "most gullible" of three cities tested for susceptibility to rumors. The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will hold its meeting Friday evening, March 13, at the home of Mrs. Oliver Keator. Mrs. Seth Rowe will be the assisting hostess. At this meeting arrangements will be made for the annual dinner, therefore all members are requested to be present. PANDIT JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

He likes winter sports and swimming and is an English gentleman in his speech, actions, likes, dislikes; he is ascetic, moody, something of a poet-like dreamer.

He speaks clearly, precisely, logically in several Indian tongues as well as English.

In a land where religion is so important to all classes, Nehru speaks of religion as a "kill joy" and discounts its hold on the common people.

And yet the deeply religious Indian peasants, worship him even as he does Gandhi.

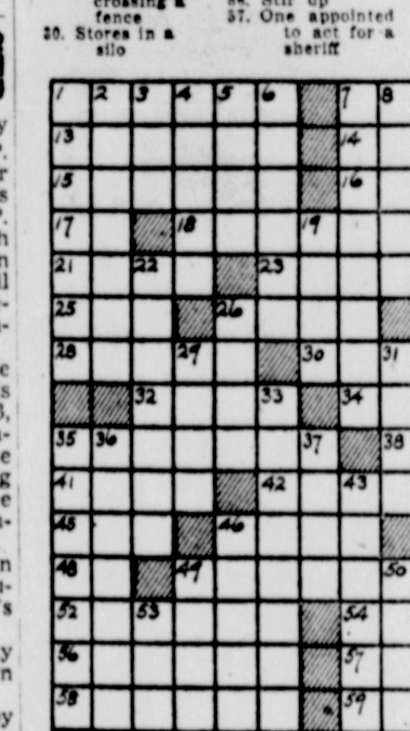

Since he returned to India a young man of 23, Nehru has followed his family's tradition of public service, but he has served his people in strange new ways. He headed the India Party Congress and even after retiring from its presidency, leads the independence movement.

In August, 1940, Nehru predicted India would "throw her full weight into the struggle" only if India's independence were acknowledged and warned England to that effect.

Experts Say Topography Of Lower California Bars Any Successful Invasion

By WILLIAM D. PATTERSON
Pacific Defense Headquarters, Ensenada, lower California, March 11 (Wide World)—Both Mexican and United States officers stationed here call discussions of likely Japanese offensives against the United States through lower California the imaginations of armchair strategists who know nothing about the problems involved.

They say the tortuous terrain of this peninsula, which stretches like a dinosaur's backbone for 800 miles from the California frontier, presents more obstacles to movement of a modern mechanized army than are to be found in the Libyan desert, the Malaysian peninsula or even the snow and mud of Russia.

Added to this are the forces massed here to repel a sea-borne invasion.

Listing the natural obstacles, they said they were enough to break even a Japanese general's heart. They summed up as follows:

Lower California is not a stamping ground for Axis fifth-columnists. All Japanese have been taken to the interior for internment.

There can hardly be any concealed enemy air or submarine bases here. Ceaseless plane, sea and land reconnaissance by both American and Mexican units has found no suspicious activity.

Facilities for transporting men, supplies and equipment overland are almost non-existent, and the peninsula's mountains, deserts and deep, precipitous arroyos make cross-country maneuvering virtually impossible south of Santo Tomas.

Peninsula Is Parched
For most of its length the peninsula is parched, barren land which offers neither water, food nor shelter for an invading force.

Heavy, surging, high, rocky coasts provide few points at which a landing operation would be feasible. All such points, beaches and harbors, are under regular surveillance and constantly guarded.

Airforce Commander Col. Fernando Proal, whose planes keep watch over the desolate expanse of the peninsula, stated graphically:

"If an enemy invasion force lands south of here, I think we should leave it alone. The men would quickly die of thirst, sunstroke or hunger without being touched by us. We would only have to keep them penned up there."

The United States fleet and the enormous drain of the western Pacific campaign hold Japan from undertaking a major offensive against the western hemisphere at this time, in the opinion of Commodore Roberto Gomez Maqueo, assistant chief of staff of Mexico's Pacific defense zone.

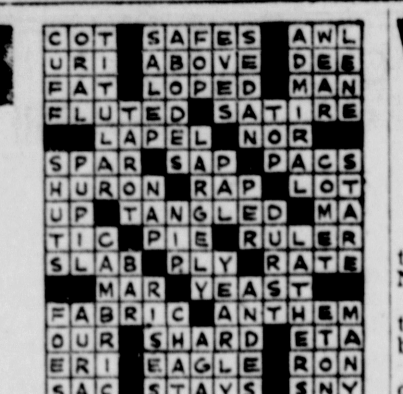

Agreeing, however, that the Axis might try to knock out the United States during 1942 before the nation is fully prepared, Gomez Maqueo declared:

"War is full of surprises, but it is hard to believe Japan could successfully land an army on this peninsula. The coast affords only a few disembarkation points. They are closely watched. Mexican and American air arms could quickly batter the invaders and land-based infantry could swiftly reach any section north of Ensenada, the only region in which mass operations, for reasons of terrain, would be feasible."

"Certainly we would know an invasion was being attempted long before the enemy reached our shores. It is incredible to consider that the huge convoy necessary for an invasion could slip across the ocean without our knowledge."

Trough Is Formed
Col. H. M. Rayner, U. S. liaison officer here, said the peninsula's mountains, particularly in the south, form a trough through which the enemy would have to squeeze his forces over the only semblance of a longitudinal road in all lower California.

This unavoidable compression of the enemy's troops would provide

Couples Club Holds Annual Dinner

Roger H. Loughran spoke at the annual host and hostess dinner of the Clinton Avenue Couples Club last evening. Introduced by Vernon Miller, president of the club, Mr. Loughran took his audience on an imaginary journey to Buenos Aires, Argentina, a trip which he took in traveling to South America several years ago.

Mr. Loughran is well acquainted with the customs of the people having lived there for four years practicing admiralty law. He described the living conditions of the people and believed that in many respects the port cities were ahead of the United States in engineering facilities. In Buenos Aires he praised the water supply system and the sewage disposal. He also told of the public assistance stations in each block where one may find medical aid with an interne in charge.

Argentina is suited to raising cattle, which Mr. Loughran believes to be some of the best in the world. Some of the other products are grain and fruit. The climate of Buenos Aires is temperate, the city being as far south of the equator as Los Angeles, Calif., or Atlanta, Ga., is north of the equator. Of all the countries, he would choose Uruguay in which to live.

The speaker also told of the various ports at which the ship stopped in making the journey. Among these were the Barbados Islands, Rio de Janeiro, where he visited Sugar Loaf Mountain; Santos, port of Sao Paulo, which is reached by a railroad; and Montevideo.

Last evening's meeting was an open meeting with 154 in attendance at the dinner. Alfred Stahl, chairman of the program committee, acted as master of ceremonies. The tables were attractively decorated with flowers and each was named for an American country whose number corresponded with that on the flag of the country. These flags were hung around the room interspersed with picture posters of South America. A display of Mexican articles was on exhibit as loaned by Mrs. C. Donohue. During the dinner, which was served by the Mizpah Class of the church, music was furnished by the Bluebird Ramblers. Community singing was led by Vernon Miller and words of greeting were brought by the pastor, the Rev. William Peckham.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

IS SATURDAY TABOO AS A WEDDING DAY?

The reason why questions are sometimes difficult to answer, is that although the general rules of conduct are the same in every part of this country, occasional details of etiquette follow local precepts which differ not only from those at a distance, but even from those in neighboring communities. It is this same difference in pattern which makes places interesting, giving them—as it were—their personality. However, at times, an unusual custom, or point of view, becomes a stumbling block in the way of an easy answer!

For instance, a bride-to-be writes me that weddings in her town never take place on a Saturday. "Saturday," she says, "is not considered a proper wedding day and neither of course, is Sunday. It would suit our plans especially well to choose Saturday, but before going against custom here, will you give me the reason why Saturday is taboo?"

I cannot even guess the answer unless it might be that those who sward buying some of the Sabbath. Or it may even have originated in a protest once made for a reason of convenience on one particular occasion by a leader whose temporary objection was accepted as a permanent opinion. In any case, I can say that Saturday is the very most fashionable day for weddings in New York and other Atlantic Coast cities, especially for weddings in the country.

A Wedding Check

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is to be married and in as much as the young couple need money desperately, my husband and I intend to give them a check for a wedding present, to be used toward buying some of the many things they need to start house-keeping. I think it is natural for us to prefer to draw this check to our son rather than to the bride. In our case, we hardly know her. May we do this without running the risk of hurting her feelings?

Answer: It is hardly possible that the bride will expect you to give the check to her, but she may very well feel hurt if you exclude her altogether. I would suggest that you either write the check out to him and write her that it is of course meant for her too, or else give the check to them together, by making it payable to "Mr. and Mrs. Blank" (John Blank being, of course, his name and Mary Blank hers to be). This would mean depositing it to their joint account for use after their marriage.

Stimson Inspects Panama Canal Zone

Balboa, C. Z., March 11 (AP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson was here today on a personal inspection of this vital area, already a trouble spot, on his first trip outside the United States since the war began.

Stimson, who arrived by plane yesterday with a protective escort of 12 pursuit craft, was believed to be concerned primarily about buttressing the canal's defenses.

Although the safeguards of the canal have been growing steadily stronger since last December 7, a similar mission brought Lieutenant General Henry Arnold, chief of the air force, here last month.

Stimson's visit had an unusual precedent—30 years ago as secretary of war in President Taft's cabinet he also visited the Panama Canal Zone.

The war secretary was expected to visit the third set of locks now under construction and inspect the Caribbean defense command which already has had to cope with the operations of Axis submarines off the north coast of South America within 700 miles of the canal.

It was possible that he also would visit encampments and emplacements in the Panamanian jungle.

With Stimson were Harvey Bundy, assistant secretary of war for air, and Col. E. L. Harrison, Stimson's aide.

J. S. Elliott, 66, Dies at Resort

A. P. News Chief Would Not Accept False Rumors of 1918 Armistice

Palm Springs, Calif., March 11 (AP)—Jackson S. Elliott, who endeavored himself to every Associated Press member for his calm refusal to accept as fact the false armistice rumors of November 7, 1918, died in retirement yesterday. He was 66 years old Monday.

Elliott, as chief of the Associated Press news department, was bombarded in New York headquarters with pleas to follow a news agency and bulletin the armistice rumor. Instead he meticulously checked Washington, London and Paris officials and news sources. None could confirm the tale which sent millions into premature wild celebrations. Elliott, despite the deluge of telegrams, telephone calls and near hysteria, reasoned that German emissaries could not have arrived at Marshal Foch's headquarters.

"I'm convinced the story is wrong, that no armistice has been signed," he reported to Melville E. Stone as the then general manager of the A. P. returned from lunch.

Hours later, the state department in an official announcement confirmed his shrewd judgment.

Four days later the armistice was signed—on November 11. Elliott became assistant general manager of the Associated Press in April, 1921. He joined the A. P. in 1903 and subsequently was manager of its Congress staff, chief of the Washington bureau, superintendent of the eastern division, chief of the southern division, head of the news department, assistant general manager and assistant secretary. He retired in 1937.

He was born in La Salle county, Illinois, and worked on the Sioux City Journal, other Iowa newspapers, and the Washington Times before he joined the A. P.

He was stricken with a heart attack as he walked in his garden with his wife, Mrs. Frances Savagie Elliott, yesterday. Also surviving are a son, Jackson S. Elliott, Jr., a Washington, D. C., newspaperman, and a daughter, Mrs. Joyce Morris of Wilmington, Del.

O. & W. Railroad Not To Run Commuter Trains

No word has been received at the Kingston office of the New York Ontario & Western Railroad to the effect that the railroad may begin operation of commuter trains as a war measure to relieve local transportation problems. At present no passenger trains are operated over the line to Kingston.

There have been reports that the O. & W. might again put into effect a passenger train schedule over the road to serve local communities and care for commuters who live in suburban sections and work in Kingston. During the first World War passenger service was operated over the road. A shortage of rubber and possible curtailment of use of private owned cars has given rise to a report that passenger traffic might again be restored.

Inquiry at the O. & W. office today brought forth the information that no word of such a restoration of train service had been received.

Area Still Looks For Unannounced District Blackout

Kingston and Ulster county residents were still awaiting the signal for a second county-wide blackout which has been scheduled for some time this week. The practice blackout will come without warning as to day or hour and will cover the largest area yet blacked out.

At the Ulster County Defense Council office and the supervisors' rooms in the county court house it was stated today that no notice had been received as to the time or day and none was expected. The blackout will come as a complete surprise to all air raid workers. Chairman Albert Cashdollar of the County Defense Council and Secretary James A. Simpson remained at their post late Tuesday evening ready for any emergency.

All air raid workers are requested to remain on the alert during the week and until the blackout comes. Air raid wardens are asked to keep in contact with their stations at all times. No previous announcement will be made of the test and the usual signal system will be used throughout the city and county to warn citizens of the blackout.

At the court house a blackout room has been provided so that the operation of the sheriff's office may continue uninterrupted during the blackout. Special blackout shutters have been fitted in the office of Sheriff Howard C. Anderson and in the county defense office similar shutters have been installed for instant use so that the men on duty may continue to receive reports and carry on their duties during the time of the test.

together in those plants, could survive the public wrath should that wrath be turned against them, nor could we here on the war production board."

The public, he continued, was determined to get production and would not wait in that determination until it got production one way or the other.

"There is, however, but one other way than the one we follow now. That is the way of bondage. But our enemies are using this method and they have brought production to a high peak. We face the absolute necessity of making that production and surpassing it."

"When I say we can increase production substantially by greater use of existing machinery, I am thinking of the 20 per cent of war plants operating only five or five and one-half days a week. I am thinking of the many plants closed Sundays. I have in mind the second shifts using only 40 per cent of plant capacity and the third shifts using only 20 per cent. This, as you can readily understand, means that thousands of machines needed for war production now stand idle part or all of every week-end and from eight to 16 hours every week-day.

"Let me be even more specific. There are, for example, 31 aircraft engine and propeller plants. If the facilities of all were utilized to the same extent as the three with the best records, we could increase production immediately in these plants by at least 25 per cent.

"Take the 153 plants manufacturing machine tools. If all were operating at the same level of utilization as the top three, we could increase machine tool output 45 per cent immediately."

terials, their people with food—our presently grave position might indeed be desperate," the President told Congress. "But for the continued resistance of these steadfast peoples, the full force of the enemy might now be battering at our own ports and gateways."

He asserted that lend-lease had provided experience to fight, expanded productive capacity for turning out weapons and articles of war, and had provided lessons of untold value through tests of the weapons in combat.

Lend-lease, Mr. Roosevelt said, may be thanked for the combined strength of the United Nations.

"With that combined strength," he asserted, "we go forward along the steep road to victory."

The British commonwealth of nations and 33 other countries are eligible for lend-lease assistance, which now covers two-thirds of the earth's surface and aids nearly two-thirds of its population.

Japs Are in Control

In the battle of Burma, the withdrawal of British imperial troops from the southern Burma trap left Japanese invasion forces in control of the great Irrawaddy delta which bulges 100 miles into the Bay of Bengal.

Dispatches from Mandalay said that with Rangoon and Bassein now open to the Japanese navy, Japan's next sea move might be against the Port of Akyab, near the frontier of Bengal province, India, and the Chittagong coast.

Mandalay itself, the center and pivot of the British defense, was expected to be an immediate target of Japanese forces.

In the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters report that the situation on Bataan peninsula had apparently been stabilized temporarily, with neither air nor ground activity in the past 24 hours.

Japan's warning to Australia to submit without struggle was sounded by a Tokyo spokesman with the declaration:

"They should see the handwriting on the wall."

Premier Hideo Tojo set forth the Japanese position before the Diet January 21, the spokesman said, in an assertion that Australians would be crushed if they continued resistance, "but if they come to understand Japan's real intentions and express willingness to cooperate with Japan we will not hesitate to extend our help with real understanding for their welfare and progress."

Vagaries of the Japanese mind are evident in the statement, for it is in Australia that the Allied Nations are assembling men and war supplies for the counteroffensive intended to clear the invaders from all the southwest Pacific.

Japan's imperial headquarters asserted a Japanese cruiser formation sank the United States light cruiser Marblehead in the Indian ocean March 2 while she was "steering toward Australia" and that a destroyer sank the 525-ton Dutch minesweeper Jan Van Amstel near Lombok strait at dawn Monday.

No mention was made of casualties in the Tokyo announcement which, as in reports of the destruction of the U. S. cruisers Augusta and Houston, was not confirmed by other sources.

The Marblehead, a 7,050-ton vessel whose main armament is listed as 10 six-inch guns, normally carried 458 men. The Jan Van Amstel's complement was 46.

Aussies May Spoil Myth That Japan Can't Be Stopped

isn't yet clear whether they calculate on assuming a limited liability in merely capturing some northern Australian ports to protect their flank, or whether they envisage a full-dress invasion of this vast continent, which is approximately the size of the United States and has a coast-line of 10,000 miles.

Australia quite rightly is assuming the worst and is getting organized to deal with it. The commonwealth and neighboring New Zealand have agreed upon the establishment of an Anzac zone of mutual defense, which will include both countries. That word Anzac, by the way, is a first World War abbreviation for "Australian and New Zealand Army Corps" and is synonymous with all that is best in soldiering.

I understand that the Anzacs have decided to ask for an American as supreme commander for this great war zone. In this connection Australians are citing that America's Lieutenant General George H. Brett, who has been deputy supreme commander of the unified command under General Wavell, already is in Australia. It appears that the Aussies are impressed with the fact that Brett not only is an all-around soldier but is tops in the air, upon which the brunt of the defense and offense in the Anzac territory must fall.

Major General Bennett, of the Australian army, believes the Japanese will follow the strategy of trying to establish air bases along the north coast and then work their way southward, setting up a series of bases which finally will bring them within range of the capital cities and the centers of production. That involves a hazardous undertaking.

The invaders would have to work across vast open spaces, including great reaches of desert. They couldn't live off the country because, forsooth, there's nothing for them to take. All their supplies would have to be moved through this inhospitable territory over great distances, constantly subjected to Allied bombing.

An all-out invasion would involve the use of a great naval fleet and transports for the landing of troops at southern ports. This would mean the establishment of extremely long and vulnerable lines of communication, not to mention the problem of getting troops and supplies ashore in the face of Allied defense, which will be no Malayan affair.

New Zealand says she can hold against the enemy. And an Australian observer in this country remarked grimly to me that it might be a great thing for the Allied cause if the Japs did try a wholesale invasion of Australia, because that might just about knock the Rising Sun out.

Two Films Are Slated By Group at Woodstock

The films "The City" and "Protemkin" will be shown to the public for a small fee, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Woodstock Town Hall.

"The City" is an American documentary film directed by Ralph Steiner and Willard Van Dyke, with commentary by Lewis Mumford, delivered by Morris Cairnovsky. The score, which in itself is an important contribution to the art of the American film, was composed by Aaron Copeland. This film was produced for the Institute of Planners.

This program is one of a series of four to be shown on four consecutive Thursday evenings, from March 12 through April 2. Prospective attractions are, "The Man of Aran," "The Four Hundred Million," and "The Lady Vanishes." The showing of these films is a non-profit community enterprise under the auspices of the Woodstock Art Association. The committee is composed of Miss Alice Owen, Mrs. Julia Leacraft, Towar Boggs, Mrs. A. Refrigier, Mrs. Albert Graesser, Mrs. Vladimir Padwa, Wendall Jones, Mrs. Philip Fitzpatrick, Fred Knight, Mrs. Thomas Penning, and Mrs. W. Seaton.

Soot Catches Fire

Tuesday night about 10 o'clock the fire department responded to a call from the Kingsley Fashions, Inc., dress factory at 38 Broadway. An employee of the concern had gone to the third floor where he found a fire in a carton of soot which he had taken from a stove. He extinguished the fire with some water before calling the fire department. Tuesday afternoon the firemen also responded for grass fires on the property of the Kingston Coal Company at Foxhall avenue and Cornell street, and in the rear of Van Slyke & Horton cigar factory.

Big Basketball Double-Header Scheduled Here Tonight

Rees Play Trenton Tigers at 9:15 P. M. At City Auditorium

Manhattan All Stars Meet Kingston Team in Prelim at 8 P. M.; Big Turnout Is Expected

At the municipal auditorium tonight, starting at 8 o'clock, the first major double-header program of the present basketball season will be presented by the Kingston Recreation Committee.

This is the dual feature which is expected to pack the big Broadway court with a record attendance of fans, and which should develop into a cage spectacle presenting one big thrill after the other.

8 o'clock preliminary, Manhattan College All Stars vs. Kingston All Stars, coached by Dick Thomas of the Y. M. C. A.

9:15 o'clock, Kingston Recreation vs. Trenton Tigers of the American Professional Basketball League.

The Manhattan five, composed of many regular varsity players, will come to Kingston after a highly successful season in New York and in Madison Square Garden. The Kelly Greens are headed by Dick Murphy, who rolled up 23 points in the Garden recently. Murphy had a season total of 220 markers which isn't so bad.

Included in the visiting roster will be Andy Murphy, Jr., former Kingston High School star cager, who has transferred from Notre Dame to Manhattan.

Manhattan also will have Vinnie Pessatore, Chet Smorell, Don Hoy and Marty Mahety. Barney Hassett, a brother of Buddy Hassett, the New York Yankee first baseman, may appear with the Kelly Greens. Another member of the squad is Bob McLaughlin, who plays guard and is noted for his long shot ability. He has missed only about two or three long shots in the Garden which is a record that speaks for itself.

Coach Dick Thomas will have a roster of players which will include Jess Shultis, Don Schoonmaker, Buddy Hughes, Tommy O'Hara, Rod Sagendorf, George Zelle, Hank Krum, Ray Lindhorst, Eddie Bahl, Art D'Alessandro, "Chipe" Ryher and George Silverberg.

Manager "Turk" Karam's Kingston Recreation will try for their fourth straight victory of the season tonight in the game against the Trenton Tigers. So far this season since coming here to take over for the ill-fated New York State League team, the Recreation has turned back the Detroit Eagles, Harlem Yankees and the New York Jewels.

Since coming to Kingston the players of "Turk" Karam have been hitting it hot and heavy. At the game last week one fan was heard to remark, "they're playing the kind of ball we like to see and take it from me, I'll be out to see every game they play for the balance of the season."

That seems to be the way Kingston fans are taking to the pro cagers. Bernie Fliegel and Sammy Kaplan, two well-known and well-liked players have been going great; Willie Knapp from Long Island has made a big hit with the fans while playing outstanding ball; Joe O'Neill, Nick Shaback, Larry Dodick and Howie Bollerman all are playing top-notch ball. With every game the 1941-42 campaign is quickly coming to a close. The Rees will still book a few major attractions before the present season winds up.

Freeman League Notes

In the Freeman League this week Team No. 1, captained by Jack Hartman, continued to hold on first place despite his team's losing two games while the second place club, No. 3, won two. Monday night at the Immanuel alleys No. 2 headed by Walt Kirchofer's 478 three game series, prevented No. 1 from taking any more than one game. No. 2 took the first game by 693 to 668 but No. 1 bounced back in the second to win it easily by 781 to 637. No. 2 eked out a 688 to 669 game.

While Kirchofer took high triple honors with his 478 score, the high single of the night went to Ken Roosa of the losing squad, 182.

Last night at the Immanuel alleys No. 3, captained by Nick Bruck, came back after losing the first to No. 4 and took two straight games. Captain Bruck himself led his squad with a high single of the match with 199 and also high triple of 528, the highest hit in the league this week. For No. 4, the first half champs, Irwin Thomas had the high single game score of 188 and blasted out the only 500 game for the club with his 503.

Magnusson Crashes 612

Ernie Magnusson bowling with the Ulsters in the Central Rec League last night at the Central Recreation alleys had one of his biggest nights when he slammed out a terrific 612 triple to pace the Ulsters to three straight victories over Hercules.

Magnusson started off at a reasonable pace when he uncorked a 173 opener. But then the "Terrible Swede" really went to town. He blasted out a 223 single in the second game and then finished up with a cool 216 for his enviable 612. With Magnusson leading the way and getting able assistance from Robinson, Breitfeller, Ken Van Etten and Guadagnola, the Ulsters pounded out a 2733 team series.

Dawkins Hits 245

The high single game of the night went to Jack Dawkins, bowling with Dawkins, who pounded out a 245. Dawkins also bowled 166 and in two games had a 411 double. Despite his good scores, however, Dawkins lost all three games to the Bulls, who were paced by Johnny Zeeh's 583.

The Crystals took all three games from the Fitz keggers sparked by Fritz Bruhn's 550 triple and Pres Knight's 234 single. Knight also had games of 134 and 161 for a 529 triple. Louis Bruhn followed his brother with 538.

In the match between the Electrics and Unknowns, the former club came through with two wins. W. May had a 577 triple for the winners while Jake Senior paced the losers with a high single of the match with 220. Senior finished with a 531 triple.

Full Program of Duties at Fort Dix Keeps Weigh Less

Fort Dix, N. J., March 11 (P.)—As though income tax time and the draft and such matters weren't enough just now, the heavyweights in general and ample Abie Simon in particular were informed today that Joe Louis is stronger now than he's ever been.

Of course, this is like a red pepper is hotter when doused with mustard, but it is the awful truth, nevertheless, because Buck Private Joe, himself, says it's so. What's more, Joe says, this army life is the thing that turned the trick and changed him from a comparative weakling into the great big strong man he's suddenly become.

"It's not only the army work and stuff," Private Joe said as he went through his chores in preparation for his March 27 Madison Square Garden party with Simon. "But when you're in the army, you don't get out as much. There's not so much time for foolin' around. So you just build up naturally."

Joe isn't kidding about that. His program these days is as full as a glamour gal's date book. He's up at six a. m. for six miles of roadwork. When he comes back he takes an hour's nap, then sits down for some work with a knife and fork, and then has to run through his two-hour daily drill in his basic army training. After that, he has his work to do for the army emergency relief fund affair with Abie.

When dinner's over, any spare time before the lights go out at 10 o'clock can be used to play some table-tennis, toss some darts, have a while at gin rummy or checkers or some elegant jive pouring from the electrical music box someone gave him for a Christmas present. All of these recreations are laid out on the first floor of a fight training headquarters, the like of which hasn't been seen since Max Baer used to cover the Broadway beat.

"I'm in much better condition right now than I was after the same amount of training for Buddy Baer in January," Joe admits. "I'm five pounds less than what I was then, and I'll probably come in at 205 the night of the fight."

Walsh to Coach Rams

New York, March 11 (P.)—The same system that brought Freeman University 72 triumphs and only 14 defeats in nine years under Jim Crowley will be continued with Earl F. Walsh, big, smiling, lowland, at the helm. Walsh was last night, and Crowley was given a leave of absence to join the navy, where he probably will aid toughening flying cadets by football methods.

This meeting will be of vital importance to all paid up members as a technical matter of great importance will be brought before the board of trustees. The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States was founded in 1899 and is chartered by Congress to function as a service and welfare organization dedicated to the well being of American soldiers, sailors and marines and their families. Commander Charles B. Skane has requested all members to attend this meeting tonight.

Statutory Ceiling on Rents

Albany, N. Y., March 10 (AP)—Prospects of a statutory ceiling on rents inflated by war industry heightened today with preparation of state legislation linked to Federal price control.

Under the measure, sponsored by the industrial legislative committee on interstate cooperation, control of rents would be exercised only in areas, including defense industry sectors, where an "emergency" is proclaimed by the Office of Price Administration. State standards of control would be established by the bill which, however, would leave fixing of rents and other administrative problems to local boards. The senate received, after assembly approval, two measures legalizing use of one license plate on automobiles to save an estimated 2,000 tons of steel for the war effort. One measure would authorize the single plate this year and next and the other would make its use permanent. Bills introduced would: Exempt from the eight-hour day limitation persons employed by municipalities for defense and war work (Senator William F. Condon, Yonkers Republican). Expand state aid to school districts, furnishing free text-books to pupils, with the increase graduating from 50 to 100 per cent over six years (Assemblyman Robert J. Crews, Brooklyn Republican).

Kansas City, March 11 (AP)—The reform group which ousted the old Pendergast machine from the city hall two years ago, came triumphantly through its first test at the polls since taking office. Simple Division Is Answer for State Income Tax Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Any New York taxpayer who can divide by four and do a little subtracting is ready to make out his 1942 personal income return.

If he understands his tax blank now, he won't have any trouble cutting his slice of the $40,000,000 saving Governor Lehman is expected to approve with signature of the 1942-43 state budget bills adopted yesterday by the legislature.

The present formula for computing the levy would not be changed. The governor merely recommended a 25 per cent reduction in the tax paid this year and next, and the legislature accepted his proposal.

The return would be made out as at present, with the total tax computed. The deduction of one-fourth would be noted under the total, and the corrected three-fourths "total due" set out below.

Lawmakers sent the budget bills to his desk on the heels of two bills that would allow quarterly installment payments of the tax for the same years. The governor has said he favors quarterly payments when they can be made without endangering the state's financial condition.

Returns are required of persons with gross incomes of $5,000 and over, unmarried persons earning a net of $1,000, or married persons whose net earnings are $2,500. The single person gets a personal exemption of $1,000, and a married person $2,500 with $400 deducted for each dependent.

Other deductions are allowed for interest on personal indebtedness, bad debt, and taxes on real property, club dues and admissions.

The tax is computed at 1 per cent on the first $1,000 of taxable income after deductions are made, one and a half on the second and third $1,000, two on the fourth and fifth, two and a half on the sixth and seventh, three on the eighth and ninth, and three and a half on all over $9,000.

O'Toole Declares New Yorkers Are In Great Danger

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Representative O'Toole (D-N. Y.) told the House today that the lives of New York city residents were being endangered by the loading of ammunition ships in New York harbor.

Recalling the Halifax disaster of 1917 when an ammunition ship blew up in the Canadian harbor killing more than 1,200 persons, the New Yorker said:

"Such a disaster in New York would cost thousands of lives and a property loss of hundreds of millions of dollars, x x x at the present time the inhabitants of Brooklyn, Staten Island and lower Manhattan are sitting on a powder keg and do not know when it will go off. An explosion in such a highly congested area would be a national calamity."

Legion Has Dinner To Celebrate End Of Training Work

A dinner was held at the Italian-American Restaurant on North Front street by the "First Aid Class" of Kingston Post 150, American Legion last night, the occasion being the celebration of the completion of the first aid course by the class, under the tutelage of Frank Phinney, of the New York Telephone Co. The class functions under the personal supervision of Dr. L. E. Sanford.

Eugene P. MacConnell, who was appointed by Legion Commander Stanley H. Dempsey to organize this class, was the toastmaster.

In a brief review he gave an account of the activities in this unit, their enthusiasm in their studies, their perfect attendance record, and dwelled on the war-time contribution this "First Aid Class" is now making to a cause which eagerly welcomes them.

The class gave Frank Phinney a hearty ovation as he was thanked for his generous and voluntary services. He was presented with an appropriate gift.

In acknowledgment he stated that in all the years as first aid instructor, he hadn't met a group that responded so graciously and that gave itself so diligently to the mission before it.

Payroll Thieves

Run Into Battle

Outside Hartford

Hartford, Conn., March 11 (AP)—The state police barracks here reported today receiving a radio report from a patrol car that a "gun battle" was in progress in Windsor, just over the Hartford city line, in an area toward which three men fled after carrying out a payroll holdup at G. Fox & Company, Hartford department store.

The exchange of shots was believed to have occurred in the vicinity of the Fuller Brush factory which is almost on the city line. Deputy Police Chief Thomas J. Hickey of Hartford said the loot in the holdup was estimated at $19,000.

Hartford police pursued the bandits as far as Windsor, about five miles north of here, from

Legislature Faces Realignment and Defense Problems

Democratic Opposition Is Reported to Attempt to Reapportion G.O.P. Majority

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—New York's legislature, tentatively solving the session's first major problem with passage of a $376,000,000 state budget, foresaw today even greater difficulty in settling the two chief remaining issues—defense and reapportionment.

The proposed 1942-43 budget, calling for a $40,000,000 saving to state income tax payers this year and next through a 25 per cent cut in the levy, went to Governor Lehman for final action.

While labeling Republican claims to a $2,284,337 reduction in the governor's budget a "petty attempt" to win votes at the fall gubernatorial election, Democrat minority leaders privately predicted Lehman would allow the program to become effective without change.

In addition to being about $10,000,000 lower than the current budget, the new fiscal plan as revised by Republicans gives $1,751,000 more to state aid for education. The G.O.P. financial policy also would grant state employees $200,000 above the $1,400,000 recommended by the governor only for institutional employees. A bill to carry out this proposal will be passed Tuesday, the leadership said.

Legislators, meantime, switched attention to these new major developments: Mounting Democratic opposition to a proposed reapportionment bill which the minority claimed would "freeze" a Republican majority into the Senate.

Indication that regardless of the provisions in the state's main defense bill effecting civilian protection leadership in localities, objections to the measure will split party lines.

Efforts of Republican leaders to devise a method of cutting an existing emergency tax, all of which were continued another year in the new budget including levies on cigarettes, liquor, gross income of utilities, corporate business franchises, estates, stock transfers, gasoline and unincorporated business income.

Party chieftains, who earlier expressed hope the traditional battles attending reapportionment could be delayed at least until after election or at a special session, now acknowledged increasing pressure for action on the issue before adjournment.

"If we have to take up reapportionment of legislative and congressional districts now," said an influential Republican, "we might as well make up our minds to staying here until late next month."

A bill increasing the Senate representation from 51 to 57 and effecting the lines of many New York city districts was scheduled to be introduced next week by the legislature's Republican-controlled reapportionment committee.

Will Fight Proposal

Some New York city Democrats declared they will fight the proposal which they contended would call for one senator for every 240,000 in the city while giving normally Republican upstate a senator for every 100,000 population.

The leaders also saw a long battle ahead over obtaining maximum agreement to a defense bill which would carry out Republican efforts to "decentralize" defense authority and at the same time set up the governor's plan for appointment of paid local civilian protection directors under supervision of a state director.

G.O.P. efforts to accomplish reduction or elimination of an existing state tax law were brought into the open by Republican Senate Majority Leader Joe R. Hanley on passage of the budget yesterday.

"We have not finished with our tax program yet," Hanley admonished Democrats.

He explained later that G.O.P. leaders are exploring several possibilities for additional tax cuts, including a proposal to eliminate a $2,100,000 real estate tax.

Axis Submarines Sink Two More Vessels Off East Coast

Torpedo Splits Tanker in Two; Passenger Ship Is Blasted 130 Miles Out

New York, March 11 (AP)—Ever Bolder and swifter in their attack Axis submarines have sunk two ships in nearby waters in as many days.

In the latest and most brazen approach to the east coast since the United States entered the war, an enemy submarine with one well-aimed torpedo split in half the 6,766-ton Gulf Oil tanker Gulftrade early yesterday less than four miles off Barnegat, N. J.

Some time earlier, between 7 and 7:30 p. m. (E.W.T.) Sunday, either the same raider or another with an aim almost as good blew asunder the 5,152-ton Brazilian cargo-passenger vessel Cayru about 130 miles off Ambrose light, beacon for New York harbor.

The two sinkings, numbers 28 and 29 on the officially announced list of ships sent to the bottom off the U. S. east coast, apparently resulted in heavy loss of life, with a total of 78 still missing.

Sixteen of the 35-man crew of the Gulftrade were picked up by coast guard boats and landed safely at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, while 22 of 75 seamen and four of 10 passengers were rescued from the Cayru.

The captain of the Gulftrade, Torger Olsen of Port Arthur, Tex., said his ship was struck a few minutes after he had ordered the running lights put on "in order to avoid a collision with two ships ahead of us."

"All I wish," he added, "is that they would put me aboard a coast guard cutter so I could go out to sea and hunt that sub that sank my ship."

One of seven survivors who remained aboard the stern half of the split tanker until rescued, Chief Engineer Guy F. Chadwick, said that after bisecting the Gulftrade the submarine impudently cruised back and forth between the halves for 30 to 45 minutes, before disappearing.

"When she came cruising in between the bow and stern," he related, "the men called her names that you couldn't print."

The third naval district said it took two torpedoes to sink the Cayru, the first failing to explode. It was the fourth Brazilian ship to be lost in American waters and the government of non-belligerent Brazil prepared to protest a second time to Germany.

In Rio de Janeiro it was believed the latest sinking would speed action on an expected Brazilian decree calling for confiscation of German property there to gain reparations.

Of the Cayru survivors, who for 16 hours battled the fury of high seas, gale winds, hail and thunder and lightning in their lifeboat, Otto Albert Jaegers, a passenger, said everyone aboard got off in four boats after the first torpedo struck in the bow.

"I could see it (the submarine) plainly," he declared. "Two men seemed to be looking out of the conning tower. They called out in broken English with an unmistakable German accent, asking the name of the ship and its destination."

"The submarine then went over by boat number one, which contained the captain, and asked if everybody was off. After receiving an affirmative answer, they went over by the ship and sent the second torpedo amidships, right by the engine room."

"This blew the ship apart and it sunk rapidly."

Gasoline Consumption In East Will Be Cut

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Curtailling of gasoline consumption in the east by compulsory restrictions apparently awaits only the drawing of formal orders.

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes was understood today to have come to a decision that a restrictive program is necessary. Oil quarters said he probably would draw up the curtailment plan and the order would come through the war production board which has broad emergency powers over civilian supplies.

Several days may be required to work out details preliminary to invoking the restrictions.

Oil sources indicated the first restrictions would reduce gasoline supplies to filling stations, from 15 to 25 per cent, and institute a ration-wide 7 p. m.-7 a. m. curfew for the stations, a program employed in the east to cut consumption last summer and fall.

Rigid coupon book rationing may come later.

A committee from the oil industry has recommended definite action to meet the supply difficulties caused in the 17 seaboard states and the District of Columbia by the sinking and war transfer of tanker ships which usually serve the area.

A substantial contribution toward the $45,000 American Red Cross War Fund to be raised by the Ulster County Committee will be kept by the fighting men, healthy, happy and efficient.
